Fear 20 Dead in Rail Crash

BODIES OF SIX FOUND, 14 STILL IN BURNING CAR

Accident Occurs as 2 Crack Capital Trains Meet in Rear-End Collision.

By The Associated Press

DICKERSON, Md., Sept. 24—Six persons were known dead and 14 others trapped "with no hope" in the still blazing wreckage of a pullman car smashed and twisted early today in a collision of two passenger trains and a freight on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad main line.

The known dead were identified as a flagman, four passengers in the telescoped pullman, and one man decapitated in a baggage car.

Fourteen persons were believed still within the burning pullman nearly six hours after the wreck, and C. L. Norris, B. & O. railroad manager at Dickerson, said there were "no signs of life" within the wreckage.

The pullman was the last car on the Washington-bound Cleveland night express, into which the diesel engine of the crack Ambassador train ploughed about 1:35 a. m. The pullman then was hurled into the side of a fast freight bound from Washington to Cumberland, Md.

Freight Flagman Killed

Norris identified the dead trainman as J. M. Gilhart of Baltimore. Flagman on the freight. The dead passengers were not immediately identified.

The collision piled up a mass of wreckage, with the diesel engine overturning and catching fire, the pullman telescoped and several freight cars overturned. Steel pipe carried by the freight was twisted and broken and piled up into a little mountain. A baggage car on the second train overturned and burned, and one body was found there.

Lloyd L. Jones Jr., Dickerson merchant who reached the scene 10 minutes after the crash, said he heard persons "moaning and crying" in the wreckage.

The Cleveland night express to Washington stopped half a mile from Dickerson, about 35 miles northwest of Washington, to repair an air pump on its engine. After it began moving, railroad headquarters said, the Ambassador fast express from Detroit to Washington, ploughed into it from the rear.

Tells of Crash

J. E. McCurdy of Pittsburgh, a mechanic on the wrecked engine, said "I was in the rear of the compartment when the crash came. The train buckled and windows broke. I picked myself up and crawled out a window to look for the others. I saw Bowman and McClelland (the engineer and fireman) and they were all right. We tried to get other men out of the baggage car, but the wrecked freight started to burn and the fire spread to the baggage car. There wasn't anything we could do. We could see parts of bodies in the baggage car."

Two of those injured and taken to the Frederick, Md., hospital were believed to be Vincent D. Sweeney of Pittsburgh, public relations director of the United Steel Workers, and Phil Curran, member of the union's legal staff.

TWO U. S. WARSHIPS LOST IN SOLOMONS

Destroyer and Transport Sent Down in Pacific.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—The navy announced today that the United States destroyer Jarvis had disappeared in the southwest Pacific without leaving a trace, presumably sunk by enemy submarines or aircraft, and that the auxiliary transport Little had been sunk during recent operations in the Solomons.

Possible loss of life on the two ships was estimated at 250 men.

The Jarvis was enroute from the Solomons to a repair base when she vanished several weeks ago. She had been damaged during enemy air attacks off Guadalcanal in the Solomons.

Approximately half of the personnel of the Little was saved when she went down.

The loss included the commanding officers, Lieutenant Commander William Walter Graham Jr., Phoenix, Ariz., of the Jarvis, and Lieutenant Commander Gus B. Lofberg, Santa Cruz, Calif., of the Little.

SOYBEAN PLANT CHANGES HANDS

Fort Wayne Man Purchases Controlling Stock; New Manager Named.

Controlling stock interest in Old Fort Mills, Inc., soybean processing plant and feed manufacturing plant here, has been acquired by D. W. McMillen of Fort Wayne, Ind., Mr. McMillen announced today.

Mr. McMillen was born in Van Wert county, educated in Ohio schools and graduated from Oberlin College. He has been a pioneer in soybean processing as well as the commercial livestock and poultry feeding industries. Mr. McMillen for 25 years has been widely known in these fields.

He is the founder of Central Soya, Inc., Central Sugar Co. and the McMillen Feed Mills, home offices of which are in Fort Wayne. He is president and chairman of the board of Central Soya and McMillen Feed Mills and chairman of the board of the Central Sugar Co. Central Soya is now the second largest soybean crushing company in the United States.

On National Council

Mr. McMillen is also a member of the National Chemurgic Council, which sponsors much of the study and legislation leading toward more widespread use of farm products in the industrial world.

Marion is located in the heart of the best soybean growing district in Ohio, and Mr. McMillen said that his reason for purchasing control of Old Fort Mills was a desire to again own and operate a business in his native state, and to assist in the development of the soybean industry of Ohio. Mr. McMillen stated that the soybean growers of this area will have a market for their beans to the extent of the storage or processing capacity of the plant.

Trucks Provided for Scrap Metal Roundup

Transportation Arrangements Made for Big Countywide Drive To Start Monday; Placed in Charge of H. A. Krigbaum.

Preparations for a thorough combing of Marion county for scrap metal in an intensive three-week campaign to start Monday neared the final stages today following a meeting of the Marion county salvage committee and other interested persons last night in the municipal courtroom.

One of the important decisions agreed on last night by the committee was that "donated trucks will be used only to haul donated scrap." The group decided that free hauling and schoolboy labor should not be used on scrap metal that owners expected to be paid for. Under the plan adopted, all proceeds of the sale of scrap handled in the countywide drive will go to the schools.

H. A. Krigbaum of Mt. Vernon avenue, prominent in the petroleum industry's rubber drive a few months ago, was asked by the co-chairmen of the salvage committee to handle preparations for hauling the scrap. He expected to have much of the needed transportation arranged before the end of the week.

The county salvage committee, through Mr. Krigbaum, expects to provide free hauling in instances where school pupils are given scrap metal that is too bulky for them to handle. In these cases, trucks will be sent to pick up the scrap and take it either to the school or to a junkyard where the item would be credited to the school that located it.

Notice To Everybody

One of the first steps of the drive will be distribution of a letter to every village and rural home in Marion county this week. This letter is being prepared jointly by County Schools Supt. D. T. Mills and Arthur Smith, county farm agent whose community leaders throughout the county are being asked to work along with the schools in spotting and assembling the scrap.

Present plans call for most scrap metal in the drive to land in the schoolyard scrap piles by Oct. 12. The week beginning next Monday will be devoted to canvassing the county, locating the scrap and making arrangements to assemble it. Some of it will be taken at once to the schoolyard scrap piles. When pupils spot a farm where there is considerable scattered scrap the owner is willing to donate, they will make arrangements to come back the week of Oct. 5 to help get it assembled and carried out to the farmyard or roadside where trucks can get it.

After this kind of work has gone on for a week, part of the time with older students dismissed from their classes to give them opportunity to work in crews to assemble the scrap, the hauling is to start on Oct. 12. Most of the hauling will consist of picking up piles at farmyards and taking it to the school to which it has been donated. In some instances arrangements will be made to pick up loads at the farm and take them directly to the junkyards, giving the school credit for the load, but for the most part the junk will be assembled at the schools.

Program for City

Junk dealers have taken on the job of going to the schools to pick up the piles. They have told school officials they can expect an average of approximately $10 a ton for all the metal in their scrap piles. This, incidentally, is expected to distribute several hundred dollars among the schools for use in purchasing moving picture projectors, radio equipment or some other type of equipment the schools have been wanting.

In the city, the public and parochial schools will work largely on the same basis, although their drive may be concentrated into a shorter time—possibly two days. If the two-day plan suggested at last night's meeting is followed it is likely that students will be asked to search their own homes and possibly those of neighbors who have no children in school, and to bring all the scrap they find to their own school scrap pile. Students will be asked to haul as much to the school as they can, using little wagons or even carrying some of the small articles.

If they "spot" some heavier scrap that's too big to be handled without help, they will report same to their school heads, and the information will be relayed to the salvage committee, which will arrange for trucks to do this part of the hauling on the second day of the proposed two-day drive. The next day would be for junk dealers to haul the school scrap piles into their yards and pay the schools for the scrap they have collected.

MEAT SUPPLY TO BE REDUCED

Civilian Consumption To Be Cut to 79 Per Cent Starting Oct. 1.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard announced today that, beginning Oct. 1, civilian meat consumption the last three months of this year would be restricted to approximately 79 per cent of the amount delivered by packers during the last quarter of 1941.

Simultaneously, Wickard reiterated that citizens voluntarily should limit themselves to 2½ pounds of meat a week per person, to permit a fair sharing of available supplies.

As chairman of the war production board's food requirements committee, Wickard disclosed that to assure sufficient meat for army, navy and lend-lease needs, the committee had ordered deliveries for civilian use curtailed on this basis:

Beef and veal, 80 per cent of deliveries during the last quarter of 1941; lamb and mutton, 95 per cent; pork, 75 per cent.

The allowance proposed, the secretary declared, was entirely adequate for good nutrition, assuming the 2½ pound limit was observed.

"It is necessary that individuals hold their consumption at this figure whether they eat at home or in public eating places," Wickard said. "Public eating places in some sections may prefer some such device as a meatless day.

"We plan to consult with the trade groups of people managing public eating places and help them work out methods of enabling their patrons to stay within the sharing limits."

Individual households may use any method the family prefers in effecting the limitation, he explained.

He predicted the over-all 21 per cent statistical cut in civilian meat supplies probably would not be as great since adjustments will be made when necessary to allow for changes in distribution patterns and wartime food requirements.

War Plant Water Line Contract Let

The war department in Washington has announced that the army engineers have awarded a contract to the Curre Construction Co. of South Euclid, O., to construct a water main in Marion county. The project is classified as one costing less than $50,000.

It involves construction of approximately 12,000 feet of water main eight inches in diameter, to connect the Quartermaster War Aid depot and the Scioto Ordnance Plant. The ordnance plant already has mains connected with the Marion Water Co. distributing system, and the new project will carry the water company's service to the depot plants.

Your Old Keys Will Help Open Door To Victory

Collecting of old keys is underway in Marion county as a part of a nationwide drive.

The Star has received 1,000 envelopes for distribution to contributors in Marion city and county.

Keys may be left at The Star office at 142 North State street, or organizations and individuals may get the envelopes at the office.

The envelopes, made of heavy, strong paper, will hold up to 12 keys. They may be mailed direct to the Key Collection Committee in Columbus for three cents postage.

Old keys are the best scrap source of nickel-silver used in the manufacture of guns and the U. S. navy needs 15 million tons of the material.

Free Clinic Annual Tag Sale To Open Tomorrow

Annual tag day will be observed tomorrow and Saturday as women of the Marion Parent-Teachers council put on their 1942 drive for funds for the free clinic and dispensary at City hospital. Mrs. H. E. Bracy, president of the council, is in charge of arrangements. About 100 women will sell the tags in downtown Marion from 2 to 8 p. m. tomorrow and from 8 a. m. to 1 p. m. Saturday.

The clinic, which was established in 1927, has received financial aid from the P.-T. A. council's sale of tags since the first tag day was held in 1935. Each year the council makes a pledge of $200 toward the upkeep of the clinic, giving a small amount from the treasury and making up the difference from tag sale proceeds. If extra funds are needed during the year another donation is made by the council. There is no set price for the tags. Purchasers pay from five cents to a dollar or more each for tags they receive.

The council is one of three particular agencies in Marion which contribute to the support of the clinic which serves persons not able to pay for medical attention for their own families. Persons applying to the clinic for aid must have the recommendation of a physician, nurse or other responsible person. Members of the Marion Medical Academy serve the clinic free, as do county nurses who give their services two mornings a week and city nurses who give their services one morning a week.

During the year ending Sept. 1 clinics held three days a week, numbered 157 and there were 3,375 visits to the clinic's five departments. Many of the patients were school children. Medical treatment, dental corrections, the fitting of glasses and even minor operations were taken care of. In addition to the general clinic there is a venereal disease clinic. Mrs. Florence Coffman is clinic secretary.

Other organizations which aid the clinic besides the P.-T. A. council and city P.-T. A. units are 24 federated clubs of Marion and the federation of those clubs, the King's Daughters circle and the King's Daughters union and about 12 city school Parent-Teachers' associations. Individuals also aid with donations of funds.

Former Marionite Says Japs Ready for Bomb Ordeal

"How to Bomb Japan" is the title of an article by Albion Ross of New York, former resident of Marion, which appears in the Sept. 22 issue of Look magazine.

His father was rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church here.

Ross states that no nation is more naturally prepared than Japan to resist the effects of bombing on civilian morale. In replying to the argument that Japan's war industry is made excellent targets for bombing, he states that the Japanese have built a city of 2,000,000 with flat, fireproofing of tar or tile roofs and no basements. A Japanese worker penalized, is able to lead a normal life as long as he has his bedding roll, his rice bowl and a roof over his head.

Ross has a picture of the home of Japan steel producer, facilities, aircraft plants and shipping. A veteran foreign correspondent and expert on the Far East, he has spent much time in Japan and Indo-China and is in the foreign department of the New York Times and prior to that time was an Associated Press correspondent in Europe and in newspaper work on the Pacific coast.

MARION AREA PUT IN FUEL OIL ZONE B

Rationed Area Divided by OPA According to Climate.

Marion county and all neighboring counties have been placed in Zone B of the four next zones set up by the office of price administration in determining the rations of fuel oil householders will receive according to an Associated Press report from Washington.

OPA will ration fuel oil in 30 eastern and middle western states beginning next month. It had previously been announced generally what areas would be in each zone, but today OPA broke the zones down by counties in instances where an entire state was not in the same zone.

In addition to the four zones, OPA said it was now working on subzones to provide for ration adjustments in localities where the climate had been found to be unusual.

The zones, according to OPA, were established after a study of weather bureau reports covering a 43-year period.

Rationing will be based on the maintenance of a 65-degree daytime temperature. That a house-holder in Zone A will face a ration cut that a household in Zone D

Stops Bill Collectors

Have you ever had bill troubles? Our loan number 690795 has. This man was working only part time. His wife was a trained nurse and had a chance to go to work for a large insurance company, providing her credit standing was okay. Naturally, it wasn't so good. Bill collectors wanted their money. We made the loan at once to help these people settle up. The wife landed her job and the husband is now working full time. Many such cases prove again and again how a small loan properly used can do a world of good.

The transport crews usually turn out at 3 a. m. for their daily stint—to China and return. This round trip, with few exceptions, is made seven days a week which leaves little time, or in fact inclination, for recreation even if opportunities did exist. Dances and night spots are nil.

"Jeeping" from wooden barracks to the airfield in the raw before dawn, I saw the crews clustered about the ships, all loaded with supplies and parts for the fighting U. S. China air task force and the Chinese army.

Aboard the "Available Jones" climbed Generals Wheeler and Bissell, off on inspection tours. In all we were 16, passengers and crew.

Other ships are warming up as we take off down a muddy field, but there is no transport formation flying.

"It is every man for himself," explained Lieutenant Anderson.

Soon we are over green tree clad hills, then a steady climb through great patches of clouds and mist with the treacherous terrain obscured.

Breathing becomes a bit more difficult. We are going higher. A cigaret, one notices, has more "kick" than at lower altitudes. The match burns with a queer orange flame.

It's Cold Outside

It turns cold, 10 below zero outside. General Wheeler in shirt and slacks and wearing a jaunty field cap and General Bissell in khaki shorts and sun helmet don coats like the rest of us. They are sitting up ahead, riding the hard bottomed side seats. General Bissell has just finished dictating some letters.

Thick frost forms on the windows and is partly scraped away. Ice coats the wireless aerials and the leading edge of the wings. This icing is one of the numerous hazards; with certain atmospheric conditions the ship could be weighted down within a few seconds to a degree which might cause a crash against hidden peaks.

The pilot is taking oxygen as a precaution. No oxygen is used in the cabin but one passenger stretches out to rest, his face blue tinged.

Now we are "on top." A peculiar vibration causes an uneasy exchange of glances. When it ceases, we learn that a magneto had been acting up.

A radio warning is picked up, "enemy planes are in the air south of you." Pilot Anderson pulls up above the clouds. A sharp lookout is kept. Over the sun lighted cloud carpet, the ship skims, ready to dive into its protective sheath in case Japs should attack.

Orders are given to fit parachutes just as a precaution. Colonel John M. Tamraz, chief medical officer, S.O.S., has the foresight to snap a medical kit on his parachute harness. But no Japs show up. We have crossed part of Burma and are coasting into China.

This is "old stuff" to men of the ferry command. One of the crew passed around peanuts while calmly sipping an American soft drink.

Ferry command equipment is taking a beating under unprecedented service conditions. But air and ground crews manage to keep traffic bustling over the substitute Burma road.

The word graphite comes from the Greek "to write."

PILOT PEAK HAS A DATE WITH A SUB —

Riding with you on the Erie tonight—or when next you travel—you'll find an increasing number of men in uniform. They're traveling by carloads and trainloads. Who knows but that among them is a boy from our town—destined to become the next airman to blast an Axis sub!

Erie's first job and yours is to get that boy and his buddies through to their military destination. Sometimes in doing this we can't give you who must travel all the comforts you've grown accustomed to, but we know you know we're doing all we can.

So—when next you ride the Erie, help us help you and all the "Pilot Peaks" by following these six steps to better wartime travel: (1) Reserve rail tickets and Pullman space as early as possible; (2) Take Pullman space available instead of waiting for preferred accommodations; (3) Purchase round-trip tickets; (4) Plan your trip for early in the week or mid-week; (5) When possible take less luggage; (6) Obtain advance information on train schedules.

Former Marion Woman Becomes WAAC Member

MISS HAZEL BENDER

A former Marion resident, Miss Hazel Bender of Akron, has been accepted for enrollment in the Women's Army auxiliary corps and in two weeks will enter training at Des Moines, Ia. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Bender of 224 Elm street and prior to enrolling in the auxiliary was employed with the Hoover company at Canton.

Miss Bender ranked third in the list of 47 women accepted for the school. She attended Harding High school here.

AP MAN SAFE AFTER 47 DAYS IN JUNGLE

Haugland Brought Out of New Guinea Wilds.

By The Associated Press

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Sept. 24—Forty-seven days after parachuting down into the trackless jungles of New Guinea from a stricken U. S. army bomber, Vern Haugland, Associated Press war correspondent, has reached the allied base of Port Moresby and been hospitalized.

A spokesman for General MacArthur said today that Haugland was ill with malaria, exhaustion and lack of food but would recover.

The first indication that the 34-year-old Minnesota-born correspondent had survived the parachute jump, and jungle trek came last Saturday in a message from another Associated Press war correspondent, Dean Schedler.

Schedler, from somewhere in New Guinea, relayed a U. S. army air force report that an American believed to be Haugland had reached a remote mission station on the southeast coast of New Guinea.

Next the commander of an isolated Australian army post reported Monday that Haugland had been brought in from the mission "in an emaciated and delirious condition."

Yesterday a small plane piloted by an Australian airman experienced in New Guinea rescue work flew into the post and transported the fever-sticken reporter to Port Moresby where he is being cared for in an Australian base hospital.

Scanty reports did not indicate how Haugland reached the mission station or how he had been able to survive more than six weeks in some of the wildest and most primitive country in the world without supplies.

Only the navigator of the plane from which Haugland parachuted still is missing.

Seeking a first-hand story of the war in New Guinea, Haugland left Australia Aug. 7 in a United States army air force bomber. He won a seat in the plane by tossing a coin with another correspondent.

The plane ran into a heavy tropical storm and exhausted its gasoline supply. The occupants bailed out, their parachutes drifting far apart during the 13,000-foot descent in semi-darkness.

Two members of the crew reached Port Moresby in eight days. Two others returned after a 20-day jungle trek.

GIRL TRAINING CENTER TO OPEN

Second NYA School To Train Girls for War Work To Start Oct. 5.

The demand for trained women in war industries has led to the opening of the second all-girl training center in Ohio by the national youth administration. Mt. Logan Resident Center, near Chillicothe, will open Monday, Oct. 5. Girls between the ages of 17 and 25 are eligible to train there.

Miss Jane E. Wise, NYA youth counselor, will be at the Marion United States employment service office each Tuesday from 1:30 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. to give further information concerning NYA training and to accept applications. Mail may be addressed to Miss Wise at 423 East Rensselaer street, Bucyrus.

Mt. Logan Resident Center will provide opportunity for girls to live, work, plan and study together. The quota is limited to 200.

Variety of Training

Training will be available in machine shop, radio, welding, sheet metal, and probably airplane mechanics. Actual war production work, under the supervision of experienced foremen, will furnish the basic training. The Chillicothe board of education will give related training in shop subjects at the center as a part of the work experience. The United States employment service works with the national youth administration in placing all trainees recommended by their foremen as ready for employment.

Each girl will receive her board, room, medical care and $10 per month during the training period of approximately three months. Transportation to and from the center is provided at the beginning and end of the period. The center will sponsor a recreation program, regular "town leave," and some free week-ends for a rounded social life.

Members of Staff

The staff of the center will consist of a director and his family, a personnel officer, youth counselors, and the foreman in each work shop. A physical examination will be given each girl upon her arrival, and a nurse is on duty at all times.

Mt. Logan Resident Center was, until Sept. 1, a boys' center. Training for young men is now concentrated at Muskingum Resident Center, near Carrollton.

Galion School Levy Committee Is Formed

GALION, Sept. 24—A committee of public information of the Galion board of education will present plans for presenting to the Galion voters the need of renewing the 2.5 mill school levy at the November election, it has been announced. The committee, composed of Superintendent M. A. Povenmire, Earl Logan, and Dr. B. P. Mansfield, will meet on Saturday to continue discussion of the program.

What is known as a perspective window has been developed in weden having double panes of glass without cross bars and being mounted on frames that can be completely revolved to facilitate cleaning.

Formal Opening Held Today at Albers Market

WILLIAM H. ALBERS

The Albers Super market opened at noon today at 225 East Center street.

Preparations for opening the city's newest large market have been under way several months, starting with remodeling of the large building which formerly housed automobile agencies, and creating a parking lot to provide one-hour free parking space for patrons.

William H. Albers of Cincinnati, president of Albers Super Markets, Inc., also is president of the Super Market Institute, a national organization with headquarters in New York City.

A native of Cincinnati, Mr. Albers was educated there and has devoted his time to the food distribution business. He was made vice president and general manager of the group on May 1, 1915 and later became president.

Active in Cincinnati civic affairs, he is president of the Hamilton county park board, executive of the Cincinnati war chest and a former general chairman of the Cincinnati Community chest.

What Every German Knows

GERMANY'S rigid suppression of information that might help its enemies can be depended on to conceal evidence of its war weariness. Less rigid rules in World war I concealed the crackup of Kaiser Wilhelm's war machinery long after the tell-tale signs were evident to Germans.

One of the fixed circumstances of the war is German discipline on the home front—a discipline ingrained in the people as well as a discipline practiced by the Nazi government. Long after every German knows the war cannot be won, Germany will continue to be formidable.

Speculation at the beginning of the second winter of their costly campaign against Russia logically deals with the possibility that all Germans know now the war cannot be won. They may not admit it even to themselves, but certainly they must know it.

Long campaigns against enemies held in contempt are not the signs of victory. The war that at first was going to be averted by a show of strength, then was going to be won in a few months, then was going to be finished in a little more than a year and now finds Germany floundering short of its goal at the beginning of a third year, with even the lowly Russians still fighting, must seem much longer to the Germans, who sacrificed everything in the hope of quick victory, than to their enemies, only now beginning to realize their potential strength.

If the veil of secrecy could be lifted from Germany for an instant, the world's most hopeless problem of morale probably would belong to Adolf Hitler and his thwarted countrymen. Their enemies have not won the war yet, but Germany never can win it. It has lost its gamble on quick victory.

Policemen Can't Replace Parents

J. EDGAR HOOVER, chief of the FBI, adds his personal warning about a situation that threatens to get worse before it gets better. Another era of post-war lawlessness is in the making, he believes, unless juvenile delinquency is curbed where it starts—in the home.

Policemen, even if there were enough of them, couldn't replace parents as child trainers. Even with the most advanced crime prevention plans, the police department continues to be concerned primarily with what happens when there has been a mistake in the child's training at home.

This is not to suggest that parents must be held responsible for everything that may happen to their children, but only that anything which relaxes a child's proper discipline in the home circle will be reflected in national crime statistics eventually. Mr. Hoover is concerned, as many thoughtful persons are concerned right now, with the way war work has stolen time from the supervision of children in family circles. The ultimate disservice is not alone to the child, who may get into trouble, but to society, which must suffer the social consequences of any increase in delinquency. Much is being done to minimize the inevitable result of faulty supervision by public agencies, but unless more is done in the home the public agencies can't hope to make an impression on the problem.

Hidden Source of Manpower

THERE is, of course, a shortage of manpower. The government is worried about it, officially. In the customary manner, government officials are positive they could cure everything if only they had more authority.

However, a new agency in Washington is going to make two men appear in the place of one. The needed manpower will have to be found, and because government can't be expected to search its own premises the people must insist on looking for it there, too.

Someone has figured it out that one out of every 20 normally employable persons is working for the government. With few exceptions, all these hundreds of thousands of earnest public employes would say, they are working themselves practically to the bone, too—and for absurdly low wages at that.

When the manpower shortage reaches a real crisis, as it will before long, something should be done for the relief of these desperately overworked bureaucratic hired hands. They should be given a chance to go to work wherever opportunity beckons, or where the wages are suitable.

They would be a net addition to the nation's manpower. Together with the private employes who could turn to useful work if there were fewer bureaucrats to pester producers with forms to be filled out, they might save the day. No one dreams any more of winning the war with carbon copies and questionnaires anyway.

News Behind the News

Two Conflicting Stories Given on Cause of Threatened Fuel Shortage.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—Mr. Nelson said he was going to be a hard man. In accordance with this policy, a somewhat tough - sounding announcement came out of his war production board Monday.

It pictured the nation on the threshold of winter, faced with the prospect of a fuel shortage. You could almost see the nation huddled shivering in the corner, and the depleted coal bins and nothing to start the fire with, except the advance warnings of Mr. Ickes.

The announcement told what Mr. Nelson proposed to do about it. Four big rallies will be held before the miners in the anthracite fields Sept 28 to Oct. 1. Fighting heroes, freshly returned from the battlefronts across the seas, will appear to tell the miners a production boost is needed.

These gala affairs will held in Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Hazleton and Pottsville, sponsored by the "army - navy war production board."

This was the encouraging picture presented to the public, and it seemed to be a forthright one.. A fuel shortage and a patriotic appeal direct to the miners to meet it.

Different Story

A Pennsylvania friend of mine happened to see the announcement and sent it to me with a note which told a startlingly different story.

"Here is an example of typical meaningless ballyhoo," he wrote. "As a Pennsylvania hard-coal cracker, I know the mines are working only five days a week, probably, in part because the operators, like some of the major oil company executives, like the idea of rationing production. If the government wants more production, why doesn't it make the miners work six days a week?"

It seemed incredible. Nelson tough. A hard winter ahead. A fuel shortage that is the prime subject of national discussion. And the miners working a five-day week.

I called the best coal authority here and asked the explanation of this obviously erroneous information from my friend.

"It is true," this authority told me. "It's worse than that. The mines are not only working a five-day week, but a seven-hour day, a total of 35 hours a week. And this is the situation not only in the hard coal regions, but in the bituminous fields as well."

Explanation

"How could that happen?" I asked.

"Well, John Lewis, the head of the union, will not let the men work over-time, even upon payment of time-and-a-half, unless there is an emergency."

"Well isn't war an emergency?"

"Oh no. Lewis means the kind of an emergency caused by a fire in the mines, or a break-down, or something like that."

"Then why in heaven's name, or Roosevelt's, does the WPB hold rallies? Why doesn't it tell the miners to go to work?"

The answer came promptly:

"Mr. Roosevelt does not want to tangle with Mr. Lewis, who, as you may have heard, runs the coal industry. At least that's my personal opinion. Certainly, nothing has been done along that line.

"The rallies are designed to make the miners work harder during their 35 hours of work a week and produce more coal without lengthening the work week. I don't think it will do much good because production already has stepped up to 12,500,000 tons a week, which is greatly above last year. There is no shortage of coal supplies."

Different Picture

Here then is an entirely different picture, a little confused in one corner perhaps, as to who is responsible, but clear and indisputable as to all basic facts...Mr. Nelson tough...big rallies where army and navy heroes, who have risked their lives at the front, go pleading directly to the miners to increase production—but apparently not the work week .. The nation facing a fuel shortage so dire that Mr. Ickes and all the other government officials say citizens must court influenza or colds and risk their lives by keeping their houses cooler, burning 25 per cent less fuel, and the miners, apparently all hard and soft coal miners, working a seven-hour day and a five-day week ...But worst of all, the authorities here, the tough federal authorities, who are telling everyone they must sacrifice, who have unlimited powers to put some people out of business and other people in business, and to make people go cold, so stultified by the unions and Mr. Lewis that they have to go begging through proxies of war heroes to lessen the national want of fuel....

If there are any valid excuses, I was unable to find them. The only slim sign of an excuse was the report that fuel stocks are not now low, but this is denied by the WPB clamor for more coal (they would not be holding rallies otherwise), and, anyway, winter has not started yet.

Personally, I think they are holding the rallies in the wrong place and before the wrong people. That parade of war heroes could well be presented to Mr. Lewis, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Nelson, jointly assembled.

"Reception Committee"

Troops Trained To Meet Any Attempt To Invade U. S.

By LEO TAFFE
Wide World Features Writer

CONCORD, Mass., Sept. 24—Hit 'em, get out, then hit 'em again!

Those are the tactics the Army is teaching at the nation's first permanent guerrilla warfare school.

The school is not intended for training combat troops but only for those soldiers of interior security, military police battalions of the Army of the United States and the State Guard. The latter two groups; school officials assert, probably would make first contact with any enemy to set foot on United States soil.

British Plan Is Guide

The First Service Command Tactical School was organized in June by Major General Sherman Miles, commander of the First Service Command, and placed in charge of Lieutenant Colonel John K. Howard of Boston, who spent two and a half months in England last spring, studying at first hand the workings of the British Home Guard.

Selected officers of the State Guard of the six New England States, several military police officers and a few from New York, Texas, Michigan, Missouri and New Jersey are among the nearly 400 graduates of the one-week courses. Already several other service commands have sought details as to the curriculum.

Here's The Idea

Why the hit' em, get out, then hit 'em again plan?

Commandant Howard explained it this way:

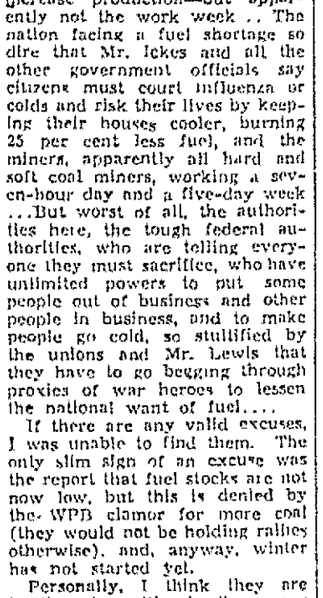
"Combat troops are primarily for fighting overseas. Defense is not their mission. We must depend heavily on state forces and the army's military police to defend the country. They are not armed adequately to go into head-on combat with highly-trained and heavily armed enemy forces.

"So, we have adopted the hit 'em, get out, then hit 'em again tactics, much like those used by our cavalry for years."

Among the subjects taught are: potential fifth column activities, sense training (eyes, ears, nose,) immobilizing automobiles, camouflage, crawling, stalking, street fighting, grenades, bombs, infiltration map reading, defense against planes, hasty field fortifications, use of flame, demolition, road blocks, ambush.

Commando Tactics

The student officers are taught how to crawl noiselessly up behind an enemy sentry and kill him. Maybe a slit in the throat or a knife through the proper spot in the back. They are shown how to construct and use the deadly



ALL'S FAIR—America is training her home guard to hit fast in case of invasion. Here a student guerrilla shows how to silence a sentry, dispose of him with the knife.

"Molotov cocktail" which covers a tank or automobile in a ball of flaming liquid.

They are instructed how to see without being seen, to hear without being heard, by making full use of cover or camouflage. And they learn how to run a motorcycle dispatch rider into a ditch, without killing him.

Those footprints in the ground tell them if a man was running, walking or carrying a heavy load. A sniff of the air reveals if the enemy is using chlorine, mustard or some other type of gas. How to roll across a clearing, rifle always ready, comes easy after a few tries.

Nipping Axis Strategy

"The Axis idea is to get the advantage of surprise, move on a tight, time-table at tremendous speed and retain their initial advantage," Col. Howard said. "Our troops must get there right off. Even a few hours may make the enemy landing a success or failure. The enemy knows where our combat troops are stationed and will not hit there.

"It is for the State troops and military police, therefore, to make first contact, notify combat forces and then delay and harass the enemy until the combat forces arrive, to prevent the enemy from running wild.

"We must prepare, and now, for enemy parachute troops, landing of air-borne troops, highly-coordinated commando raids and, of course, for a full scale invasion. And, always, there is the threat of air bombings.

'Minute Men' Out . . .

"There is no place in this war for a 'minute man.' We must have trained men to meet these threats.

"We must have forces ready to cope with what I call combat fifth columnists. They are the organized saboteurs, working as a body. I believe there are some such groups in this country, with their caches of arms and ammunition. Most likely, they would be in key cities, ready, to do their work when and if the proper time comes.

"Showing their hands simultaneously in widely separated spots, they could cause panic and it is my belief they might well cut down our war production over a long period very heavily."

No 8-Hr. Day

From 6 a. m. to 10 p. m., the students, ranging in rank from second lieutenant to brigadier general, labor under their regular army instructors. There is no fancy, close order drill. No time for it. They don't ring the "no school" signal for any reason, cloudburst or blistering sun.

The old tricks with the new wrinkles are being polished up. Back home, the graduates will pass on what they have learned, always stressing the school's battle cry "Hit 'em, get out, then hit 'em again."

30 DAYS HATH SEPTEMBER

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Sept. 24, 1932.

Mrs. Christine Bradley South of Kentucky was the speaker at a political rally sponsored by the Marion chapter of the Ohio Council of Republican Women at Garfield park. She was the daughter of the first Republican governor to be elected in Kentucky.

Will Rogers in his daily dispatch reported. "We all, out here in Los Angeles woke up one morning with nothing on our hands but a presidential candidate. Mr. Roosevelt, a very high class man, win, lose or draw, is out here shaping these lemon trees to try and bring down some Republican fruit that might fall in the Democratic basket, among the oranges."

It was announced that the Booster class of First Reformed church would stage a minstrel show in November. The committee on arrangements included W. J. Brown, Vern Barnhill, Asa Queen, Harry Wires, Fred Sinning, E. L. Cleveland, Ray Reidenbaugh an Dr. J. F. Neidhart.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Sept. 24, 1922.

Mrs. Harry Reiff was given a surprise party at her home on Girard avenue in celebration of her birthday anniversary. It also marked the 15th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Reiff.

The annual Reformed church Sunday school convention in which all Sunday schools of the eastern section of the Heidelberg classis participated, was held at the First Reformed church here with over 400 present. New officers elected J. J. Fauer of Whetstone, chairman of the conference for the coming year, and Mrs. Lewis Nedele of Bucyrus, secretary and treasurer.

The Marion baseball team was defeated by the Columbus Panhandles before a crowd of 900 at Lincoln park. The score was 6-1. Stentz, Marion pitcher, was wild and field poorly, according to the published account of the game, and this was blamed largely for the defeat.

Charles Bianchi of Galion, brother of Adolph and Sam Bianchi of Marion, died in Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, at the age of 48.

Want A Commission?

There Are Many Openings. Also Many Applicants.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—The question asked members of Congress, military officials, and civilian government bigwigs, is "How can I get a commission in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps?"

The Army, Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard probably have several hundred thousands each of such applications. The Army Specialist Corps is near or over the 300,000 mark (not quite all of these are for commissioned jobs) on applications. Outside of these filed applications are undoubtedly hundreds of thousands more who haven't bothered to file but are "eager to get in" if they can get commissions with salaries commensurate with their civilian pay.

Two-part Answer

The answer to the question, "How can I get, etc.," must be broken into two parts: Combat commissions, noncombatant or specialist and technical jobs.

In the case of combat commissions, even if a man is a specialist or technician, the answer is pretty easy. All branches of the service provide a training period for such officers. They can be draftees who have been recommended, after induction, for officer training schools. They can be specialists or technicians, with designated commissions, assigned to such schools.

In the first instance, any man who is physically fit, mentally capable, and can prove that he's not neglecting his family, can go through 13 weeks of training and get assigned to an officers' training school in the Army. In the second instance, he may have to wait his turn, depending upon service needs. It may be long before he's called: his training may be rigorous. On the other hand, he may be shoved through quickly.

"Cellophanes" Disappearing

There is no trick about any of it. In the Army, Navy, Marines or Coast Guard, combat service demands a preliminary weeding out period. But the commissioned field is open to all. Officers are just as much as or more in demand than privates.

For those who are unfit for combat service, the Army Specialist corps, headed by Brig. Gen. Dwight Davis, is rapidly opening the door to commisions. At last unofficial report, there was at least one job for every 10 or 15 applicants. Naturally, some specialist sections are overcrowded, others barren, so far as applicants are concerned.

As for the so-called "cellophane" commissions — those obtained by pull—they are fast disappearing. Many a man who has been condemned for getting his commission by pull has gotten it by persistent pull of his own bootstraps.

This Is San Diego

By DAMON RUNYON

The Little City That Grew So Fa... It Has More Night Life Than the No. 1 Stay-Up Town.

SAN DIEGO, the white city that spreads ...udily along the shore line at the southern end of California, is the most astounding place in the United States today. Within a year its population has ballooned from around 150,0... to fully twice that number. At 2:30 o'clock any morning there are more people in the streets than in New York or any other city in the country.

I can remember when you could fire a cannon loaded with rice along any street in San Diego at 9 p. m. and not hit a human being. I can remember when San Diego was noted for its torpor and as a place where old folks went mainly for peace and quiet. I think it was Baron Long who once remarked to me that he had moved to San Diego.

"Because I wanted to live in a place where I could be sure of always having room to park my car."

Baron Long operates the famous old U. S. Grant hotel in San Diego, now perhaps the greatest gold mine among the hostelries of the nation. It rarely has a vacant room. So many nights soldiers, sailors and marines slumber in the capacious leather upholstered chairs and on the settees of the lobby without cost and without protest from the management. This is also true of other San Diego hotels.

THE ROOMLESS also snooze on the benches in the little park across from the Grant and even in doorways along the streets. They could pay for more orthodox couches, but such couches cannot be had.

A soldier or sailor fortunate enough to get a room on overnight leave often lets a few comrades park on the floor. Life in San Diego these nights seems to be a constant struggle to find a spot to rest the weary noggin, though fortunate the always incomparable climate of the city has been particularly salubrious lately and dozing outdoors is no great hardship.

Rentable apartments and houses are scarce and, being scarce, rents are high, a condition that will make New York City landlords weep their upward of 70,000 vacant apartments mighty envious. On big nights, like Saturday, every stool and table at every bar and every restaurant is apt to be occupied in the early hours of the morning.

The movie theaters are constantly packed, though this situation is not peculiar to San Diego just now, what with business being the greatest in cinema history. But the numerous dance halls of the city are undoubtedly doing greater trade than those anywhere else, because dancing is the diversion of youth and youth is predominant in San Diego with its defense workers and service men.

A CURIOUS form of public amusement characteristic only of Pacific coast cities is the open card room in which, in San Diego, the popular game seems to be a species of poker called "lo-ball." The low hand wins rather than the high. In San Francisco and other towns the game is more apt to be something called pangini. The spelling is probably wrong. These rooms, with wide open doors, have existed on the coast for years.

The cards seem to appeal more to older civilian men and women than the youth. The stakes are extremely moderate and the pastime probably too slow and unexciting for the youngsters. I saw a few service men playing in the rooms but they struck me as rather bored by the proceedings. Conversation among the players was sparse. I imagine a brisk session of bingo would be much more thrilling.

Vitamins from Pickled Walnuts

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Wide World Science Editor

One pickled walnut a day gives you two as much vitamin C as you need, provided the pickling is done right.

This report comes from Nature, British official science journal. Green walnuts are so rich in vitamin C that good-sized nut contains 1... milligrams of the vitamin.

English scientists found that green pickled walnuts and white pickled walnuts are best. The differences in color are due to methods of peeling the unripe nuts.

Very good for vitamin C also are walnut ... malade, walnut and black currant jam, walnut and green tomato chutney. To retain the vitamin the report says it is necessary to use either of two methods of pickling published by Mrs. Hannah Glasse in the 18th century.

The present popular British method of pickling, which uses either steam or exposure to sunlight, completely destroys all the vitamin.

The Russians made some studies on walnuts, vitamin C and found that their method of preparing walnut candies destroyed the vitamin. Nature does not tell how to make a walnut vitamin C confection.

FORMER Y WORKER TELLS OF USO JOB

Jack Coughlin in Recreation Work on West Coast.

The service the USO is giving on the west coast is described in a letter from Jack Coughlin, former boys' work director at the Y. M. C. A., who resigned the first of this month to go into war recreation work.

Mr. Coughlin wrote that he is to be director of mobile service of the USO in northeastern California and will live in the vicinity of Sacramento.

"This is the most interesting work I have ever been in," he said in a letter to Earl N. Hale, general secretary of the Y.

"Our trucks have a movie sound projector, record player, built-in stove and kitchen and built-in bunk. Supplies are magazines, athletic equipment, cigarets, stationery and envelopes."

He wrote that on last Monday night he was in a caravan that visited a lone outpost of 110 men who hadn't had any entertainment in more than a month. The entertainers included a magician, Hawaiian hula-hula girls, a Spanish singer and a song leader. The caravan gave magazines, stationery, cigarets and games to the post. U. S. HOUSING LOANS LISTED IN COUNTY

169 Made During 1941, Director Reports.

A total of 169 Marion county families made property repairs or took out loans for home ownership in 1941 under the national housing act, according to a report today from A. L. Guckert of Columbus, FHA district director for the Central district of Ohio.

Included in the total were 126 property improvement loans amounting to $42,217 and 13 small home mortgages accepted for insurance amounting to $67,000.

Despite certain necessary restrictions in the supply of materials essential for home improvement, authorities have no intention of hindering the normal upkeep of America's 30 billion dollar investment in property, according to the announcement.

Loans up to $2,500 are available from qualified lending institutions under the FHA plan for necessary maintenance and repair work on home. These loans are not limited to war production areas. Loans above $2,500 and up to $5,000 are available from the same sources for the conversion or repair of existing structures into living quarters for war workers in designated war production areas.

MARTEL SOLDIER GETS COMMISSION

Graduates with Hank Greenberg and Larry Cotton.

Gaylord Pletcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orvil Pletcher of Martel, has been graduated from officers candidate school at Miami Beach, Fla., as a second lieutenant. Lt. Pletcher had been enrolled in the school for 12 weeks.

He was graduated from Martel High school in 1936 and until his enlistment in January, 1940, he was associated with the Marion Grain & Supply Co.

Graduating in the same class with Lt. Pletcher, were Larry Cotton, radio singer, and Hank Greenberg, baseball player. Clark Gable is also enrolled at the school. Lt. Pletcher said in a letter that they were "all fine soldiers" and "just one of us."

COURT NEWS

Cross Petition Filed

An answer and cross petition has been filed in common pleas court by the defendant in the damage suit brought by Springer W. Truman against Ernest Lang, as the result of an automobile collision May 5 last year.

The defendant denies the allegations set forth by the plaintiff and asks that he be awarded damages in the amount of $30,790 for alleged personal injuries and damage to his car. The plaintiff further claims that the collision and alleged damages were caused by the carelessness and negligence of the plaintiff.

Jack Arter is the attorney for the defendant.

Sues for Deed

Pete M. Barnes has filed a suit in common pleas court against Francis P. Dwyer and others, seeking a court order to force him to deliver a warranty deed under terms of a land contract in the ownership of real estate known as lot 1042 in Crissinger's second addition to the city of Marion.

Barnes claims that he has fulfilled his contract and asks that Dwyer and others convey the real estate to him in compliance with the contract. Martin & Reed are attorneys for the plaintiff.

One Price—No Specials
The same low price—the right price—every day. No Friday and Saturday specials on a few items with higher prices on other days.

Low Prices
Every item at the lowest possible price, which means large savings on your total cost of all foods. Comparisons by many thousands of customers have proven this.

½c Register Keys
An Albers innovation that has saved our customers ½c on hundreds of items amounting to a saving of $63.82 in one store on one day's grocery sales alone.

Highest Quality
Well-known Nationally Advertised Brands—the quality of which is beyond question. No long list of private label or "House Brands" on which high profits are usually made.

Complete Variety
More than 2200 items, 1100 Nationally known Brands and many specially tempting foods that other stores do not handle, such as Nectarines, Spiced Peaches, Apricot Nectar, Battle Creek Foods, Frosted Foods, Loganberry Juice, Diabetic Foods and many others.

Self-Service
Entire Grocery Department is self-service. Take as much time or as little as you wish. No clerks to sell you things you do not want. A store directory to guide you.

GAS SUPPLY HIT BY PEAK DEMAND

Company Reports Difficulty in Obtaining Fuel.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24—The East Ohio Gas Co. is having difficulty meeting increased demands of its consumers on peak days, President J. French Robinson reported.

He testified at a securities and exchange commission hearing yesterday that although the war had increased the company's business it would be able to handle peak demand of industrial users if an unlimited supply of gas were available from the Hope Natural Gas Co. of West Virginia.

The hearing is being conducted on the proposed sale of four gas subsidaries of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey to the Consolidated Natural Gas Co., newly formed Standard subsidiary.

Standard proposes to exchange $53,969,300 capital stock of the four companies for $81,850,770 in Consolidated common stock in an effort to escape the holding company act.

Standard plans to distribute Consolidated common stock to its shareholders if the SEC rules Standard must divest itself of Consolidated.

The four subsidaries are East Ohio, Hope Natural Gas, People's Natural Gas Co. and the River Gas Co.

Officials of the utilities are in favor of the plan, they have said, because the subsidaries disposal by Standard as a unit would not disrupt production, which depends on mutual coordination of effort at the present time.

11 Moyers Do Bit To Help Win War with Tomato Crop

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Sept. 24—If the war could be won with tomatoes alone, 11 victory medals would have to be struck for the Moyers.

The way they have pitched into the "food for freedom" fight received special commendation today from the United States department of agriculture. It's office of information gave the following account of how the Moyers, father, mother and nine children, have gone to work:

When the government asked farmers early this year to produce more tomatoes for canning, John Moyer surveyed his farm 10 miles south of Dayton and discovered he could devote 20 acres to the crop. When the plants were in, however, the Moyers discovered there was no cannery within reasonable trucking distance of their place.

Completely undismayed, they determined to do their own canning. The boys laid a cement floor in an old tobacco shed and all the family helped to install plumbing, three cookers and other equipment necessary for canning. When they finished a state inspector said it was one of the best tomato kitchens he had ever seen.

Nineteen-cyar-old Robert Moyer estimates that if it's a good season the family will be able to turn out 10,000 cases of No. 2 tomatoes, with 24 cans to a case. The government has recognized their enterprise by giving them an order for 4,000 cases.

"We'll run every day, six days a week, until frost," young Moyer said. "And we'll do all the work ourselves."

Even little Martha, five years old, is doing her bit. "I catch the little worms in the tomato fields," she explained gravely. "I'm afraid of the big ones."

Rent Registration Guide

Marion Area Director Issues Instructions to Landlords on Filling Out Blanks.

Responsibility for the rent registration program which will get under way Friday in Marion city [illegible] will be entirely upon the landlords.

That is Bartram, director of the Marion rent control area, said today that the rent registration does not contemplate that the office of price administration or people at the [illegible] distribution of the registration blanks will be available to help the landlords fill them out.

Registration blanks may be obtained in the common pleas courtroom on the third floor of the court house at the public library building on South Main street or in the municipal court office in the city building on the corner of West Center and Orchard streets.

The registration forms must be filed at the rent control office at 304 West Center street by Oct. 16.

Originally the deadline was announced from Oct. 15 in a telegram received late yesterday from the regional OPH office in Cleveland.

The registration is made mandatory by law and failure to register makes the landlord liable to a maximum penalty of a year's imprisonment and a fine of $5,000.

Work of the rent control office at 304 West Center street will get under way in full force when all registration blanks have been returned.

Since the office opened there has been considerable work in getting together the materials for the registration and Mr. Bartram has interviewed a number of landlords and tenants.

Mr. Bartram asked that landlords take care in filling out the blanks, sparing themselves the inconvenience of correcting errors or filling in omissions.

List of Instructions

Mr. Bartram addressed this explanation to the landlords to assist them in registering:

You will receive a pad of triple blank form questionnaires for each dwelling unit you are required to register. You fill out all three with one operation. Carbon paper does the rest.

Writing in of the names and addresses of landlord and tenant, and the number of rooms in a dwelling unit, needs no explanation. Nor does the filling out of the blanks of Section D, which is at the right center of the form. All you do is to fill in check marks under the "yes" and "no" columns opposite the listing of equipment and services which went with the dwelling unit you are registering on March 1 of this year when you have filled out the form.

You will find the major part of the work of filling in this registration blank cut and dried for you under Section C in the seven items in the right center of the form. Filling in the blanks under Item No. 1 is easy. You put in the amount after the dollar sign and make a check to show whether it was a weekly or by-the-month rental. If this rental dwelling unit was being rented on March 1, 1942 you merely put in the amount of rent you were getting for it. If you have filled in Item 1, you can skip Items 2 and 3. But suppose the property was rented on May 1, then you pass on down to Item No. 2. The answer to this question takes care of your maximum legal rent figure. If you find that your dwelling unit was not rented on March 1, 1942, but had been rented during the two months just preceding. If it was rented at any time during the two months before March 1, 1942, then you put down the rent rate you last received in that period.

If neither Items 1 or 2 covers the situation of the property being registered, the answers to questions asked under Item 3 may do so. This applies to rental units which were vacant both on March 1, 1942 and for two full months or prior to this maximum rental date, but which were rented subsequent to March 1, 1942 and before Sept. 1, 1942.

Perhaps you were living in the dwelling unit yourself between Jan. 31 and March 1, or perhaps the property was vacant. Then you will so check opposite (a) under Item 3. Or, you may have built the dwelling since March 1, 1942, and rented it since it was completed. Here you will check opposite (b) under Item 3. Suppose you built the property after March 1, 1942 and that you obtained a priority rating for materials you used under the defense housing regulation. In that case, if you built to rent, your maximum rental would have been set for you by the housing authorities, and you will check the fact that the dwelling is within this category opposite (c) under Item 3.

Item 4 applies to a dwelling unit made available for renting between March 1, 1942, the maximum rent date, and Sept. 1, 1942, when rent control became effective in this area, by a change in structure which resulted in an increase or decrease of dwelling units. You simply state here what you charged the tenant when such property was first rented.

Item 5 applies to property which was changed from (a) unfurnished, or (b) vice versa, or which had undergone major capital improvement between March 1, 1942 and Sept. 1, 1942. Here you indicate the date you first rented it after the improvement or the change in furnishing and the amount of rent charged on that date by week or month.

In Item 6 you enter as required the amount of the government-fixed rent on this property.

Finally, opposite the big blue arrow under Item 7, you fill in the maximum legal rent for the unit. Check back and see how many rent figures you now have put down. If you have put down only one figure so far, then that figure is your maximum legal rent. Suppose you have more than one rent figure, not counting any figure under Item 6. Then the figure that is of the most recent date is your maximum legal rent. If you have a rent figure under Item 6 you may have a different figure under Item 3. Perhaps you have been renting this new defense house at a figure less than that set by the government when you secured your priority rating for the material. In this case your lower figure is your maximum legal rent. If you have been renting it for a figure higher than the government fixed maximum then you must enter the government figure as your maximum legal rent after the blue arrow.

STEEL QUOTA SYSTEM DEVISED BY BARUCH

Changes Ahead in War Material Distribution.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 — Plans for a new quota system, sponsored by Bernard M. Baruch, under which a master scheduling board will strive to channel steel products to hungry war plants is likely to go into effect shortly Iron Age, steel trade journal said in its weekly survey.

"For the past week," Iron Age said, "many signs have pointed to drastic changes in the methods of war material distribution, particularly steel. The appointment of Hiland G. Batcheller, Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp. president, as head of the war production board iron and steel branch, one of the hottest spots in Washington was one more pointing to a new drive for more efficient steel distribution.

"Coming after the appointment of Ernest Kanzler, Universal Credit Co. (Ford) president as WPB director general for operations, and Charles E. Wilson, General Electric president, as WPB vice chairman, the appointment of Ferdinand Eberstadt, former chairman of the army and navy munitions board, as vice chairman, suggests that President Roosevelt, Donald M. Nelson and Mr. Baruch—are planning fundamental changes in the war production board.

"Industry notes that Mr. Eberstadt will be responsible for the determination of programs and schedules and will be in charge of the flow of materials. He is known to favor both the steel quota plan — which now seems headed for adoption after some rough handling by its foes at Washington — and the controlled production control plan on an industry-wide basis. • • •

"The need for improvement in steel distribution is easily demonstrated. An analysis of one day's booking for one steel company showed that no order listed carried a rating lower than AA-3. This mill would hesitate to specify a delivery date even on an AA-1 rating on some products. • • •

"The nation's steel production this week remains unchanged at 98 per cent of capacity."

Their Daily Grind Is Diamond Dust

By GLADYS DEGNER
Wide World Features Writer

NEW YORK — The wartime shortage of men for industry is leading women into strange new occupations. One of them is the diamond industry. Deep in lower Manhattan former dental assistants, beauty shop operators, seamstresses and artists are counting, sorting and cutting diamonds. Not the sparklers, precious to all women, but the diamond that drill through solid rock, "true" high speed precision tools, and grind many kinds of glass lenses.

The industrial diamonds they work on look more like ordinary pebbles or gravel than jewels. Of the diamonds mined, and there were about 9,000,000 carats last year, only one-fourth are fine enough to use in jewelry. The balance go into industry. Machine tools made of the hardest metal alloys are used in building planes, ships and guns. When these tools get out of line, which they soon do in high-speed production, only the diamond is hard enough to true them to shape again.

Pass The Tweezers

The diamonds, all shapes and sizes, come to this country in little muslin bags. The first job is for the girls who are sorters and graders. They weigh the stones and sift them in cups through perforations and varied sizes. Then each stone is individually examined for shape cutting edge and quality. The girls use tweezers to handle the diamonds and their keen eyes spot each variety at a glance.

From the sorting tables, the diamonds go into the tool shop to be cut or shape before they are set in the tips of steel tools. The first girl to learn diamond cutting in this plant was Connie Moscatelli, a former beauty shop operator. Now Connie is the teacher.

Wanted, Steady Hands

It takes steady hands, sharp eyes, and great patience to do the job, but our girls have achieved such efficiency that they have handled as many as half a million carats of industrial diamonds in one month. The cutting is done on machines which grind one diamond against the other, shaping both at the same time, or put a knife edge on one stone by abrasing it with oil and diamond dust.

The sorters and graders earn about the same money as office workers, from $18 to $30 for a 40-hour week. The cutter and setters, the girls who work in the tool plant are on industrial hours. They stop work at five, sweep their tables, shake their hands and out-of-use lay the diamonds away. This precious dust is thrown away. Every speck is saved for grinding the next day.

Three-way electric wiring has been invented with a fuse for protection of small circuits and to prevent the blowing of an entire circuit when a short occurs.

DAILY CHORE for Anna Brandt is cutting diamonds from 8 to 5, with an hour off for lunch.

Look Out for Wartime Constipation

Lack of "bulk" one of common causes

Don't be surprised if you feel all run down these war days! Look at those tires! Longer hours, harder work, irregular meals—your whole way of living has been upset. Specially eating habits. Meals are apt to be hurried, improperly balanced—and the important matter of bulk neglected.

And lack of "bulk" is one of the common causes of constipation! Violent laxatives give only temporary relief because they don't get at the cause.

The answer to this kind of trouble is drinking plenty of water and eating crisp, golden cereal — Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. For this delicious breakfast food supplies the needed "bulk" and corrects the cause. Why not start eating ALL-BRAN yourself? Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Don't Neglect Slipping FALSE TEETH

Do false teeth drop, slip or wabble when you talk, eat, laugh or sneeze? Don't be annoyed and embarrassed by such handicaps. FASTEETH, an alkaline (non-acid) powder to sprinkle on your plates, holds them more firmly and comfortably for hours. Gives a more confident feeling of security and added comfort. No gummy, gooey taste or feeling. Get FASTEETH at any drug store. —(44)

Scrap from Old Cars in County's "Auto Graveyards" Is Shipped Without Delay To Munitions Factories

"MY RUNNING DAYS ARE OVER. MY DUTY NOW IS TO LICK THE JAPS." The sign at the left explains what is happening to one-time automobiles all over the country as they are being salvaged for badly needed scrap metal. In this yard in Detroit wrecking crews are burning out the bodies of junked cars to destroy parts unfit for conversion into steel and thus simplify the metal reclaiming process.

is published in connection with Marion county's part in a nationwide campaign now on to meet the vital need for scrap metal. The drive in county will get under way next Monday, Sept. 28. Every citizen of the county is expected to do his part in helping the nation's industries get this material, needed immediately for war equipment and supplies.

Don't worry about the government getting your scrap metal when it does nothing about the auto graveyards in Marion county.

There are three graveyards in Marion county, one at Prospect and two others, with 60 cars altogether in the three yards.

And the cars you saw in the graveyards yesterday aren't the ones that were there 60 days ago. The war production board is operating that way these days which means scrap must be gotten to the smelters.

Junk dealers are given 60 days to dismantle cars.

The dealer said yesterday that normally he has from 400 to 500 cars in his yards. Yesterday he had 60 to dismantle.

And if you see tons of scrap in a junkyard don't jump to the conclusion that the scrap you've given is forgotten on the heap and that it isn't being put to use.

Shipped by Carload

Scrap is shipped out in carload lots. There are 74 grades of scrap metal. A dealer may have 50 tons of scrap in his yard but not enough to make up a one-carload carload.

But as soon as he has a carload it is sent on its way to war.

On junked autos the WPB has ruled that the graveyards turn out every 60 days as much scrap metal as they have taken in—that's why the cars you saw in the graveyard yesterday aren't the ones that were there two months ago.

Auto graveyards are a manufacturing business. They must keep an inventory on hand. They employ skilled men who know the numerous classifications of scrap and know how to cut up automobiles, work bailers and attend to all the other jobs involved in manufacturing scrap. It would be suicidal to empty the yards of automobiles.

Evidence of Accomplishment

Under the WPB order that for every pound of wornout car that enters a graveyard a pound of scrap metal must leave the yard and go to a war mill within 60 days, the more cars you see in the graveyard today, the more steel Uncle Sam has received in the last two months.

Actually, the graveyards make it possible to obtain scrap which otherwise would not be available. That is because the graveyard operator obtains most of his income, not from the iron and steel scrap, but from the parts and gadgets he salvages before he breaks up the leftover bodies.

Because the profit on salvaged spare parts is higher than it is on scrap metal, he has more incentive to go out and buy old cars than has the ordinary junk dealer whose income comes from the less profitable scrap.

Where They Come From

The graveyard operator buys his cars from the second hand dealers or insurance companies which have taken the remains of a smashup. After salvaging the spare parts and doing away with the upholstery and other non-salvagable materials, he cuts off the fenders and body, breaks them up in sizes small enough for the scrap dealer to handle, and sells them for scrap.

You can get an idea of how quick the auto graveyard turnover is from these figures:

At the end of March, 1942, there were a million and a half cars in the 22,000 auto graveyards spattered across the American countryside. Four months later there were only 500,000 there. And in this time a total of over two million cars had been processed—made into scrap.

Millions To Come

Figure that an average car weighs about 1,500 pounds as scrap, and you'll see just how important an auto graveyard is in the production of this vital metal.

The war production board estimates that there are now on the roads of America some six million candidates for auto graveyards. If patriotic Americans sell these jalopies to graveyards at a rate of 500,000 a month, the auto graveyards will supply 20 per cent of the total iron and steel scrap that U. S. mills need next year.

Patriotic Inflation

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—A stranger wandering about the Washington Market might have thought inflation was here with a crash. Produce dealers were bidding wildly for a crate of carrots—up to a thousand dollars. A carload, worth about $1,550 at the last recorded prices, went for $13,000.

Then the stranger would have learned the reason. All proceeds will be used to get supplies and medical equipment to American soldiers captured at Bataan and Corregidor.

Pivoted to a back that can be hung on a wall, a sand glass invented by an Illinois man can be set to turn over at the expiration of three, four or five minutes and ring a bell.

SON ADMTIS SLAYING OF PARENTS WITH AX

St. Louis Man Confesses Killing in Family Quarrel.

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24—After hours of questioning, Robert Nash, 27-year-old St. Louis electrician, today confessed, said Police Capt. Leonard Murphy, to the ax slaying of his father and mother during a quarrel over his financial difficulties.

The St. Louis police detective said the husky blond-haired youth related details of the brutal crime to police, federal bureau of investigation agents and Illinois authorities.

Charles A. Nash, 61-year-old internal revenue agent, and his 48-year-old wife, Eleanor, were found, hacked and mutilated, Tuesday night in the family automobile on a highway eight miles north of Springfield, Ill.

Unruffled by a constant barrage of questions, the younger Nash finally revealed he slew his father, then his mother, during a violent argument over $640 in personal debts and his habit of continued late hours, Murphy related.

"I know the penalty for my crime and I'm willing to pay it."

Nash told reporters at a press conference held after the police announced he had admitted the slayings.

"Are you sorry?" he was asked.

"Of course, I'm sorry," Nash replied.

Nash's version of the murder, as told by authorities, related how, after he had grabbed a hand ax and killed his father, his mother, frantic with fear and grief, cried:

"Now look what you've done."

Her hands wildly clutched at her son as he turned in anger, struck her with his fist, then again took up the bloody weapon and slashed her repeatedly.

"I hit her on the head, shoulders and back," Nash said. "I placed his body in the trunk and then I threw her body on the floor."

His confession detailed how he drove to the Nash home, changed his bloody clothes and began motoring to Illinois. About 30 miles east of East St. Louis, Ill., Nash said, he tossed out his bundle of clothes.

The sleight electrician told how he abandoned the car north of Springfield because of a second flat tire and went to the city in search of a new tire.

It was then he hitch-hiked a ride with James McCue, a coal hauler, who, officers said, identified Nash last night in a police showup and provided authorities with what they said was the first real break in the case.

Before announcing Nash's confession, acting Chief of Police Andrew Aylward had said that young Nash a few days ago had admitted mailing a premium on a $2,000 insurance policy on the life of his father.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

EXCESS PROFITS GO BACK TO GOVERNMENT

Total of $15,000,000 Repaid in Cleveland Area.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24—Excess war profits approximating $15,000,000 have been turned over to the government voluntarily in the past five months by contractors in the Cleveland ordnance district.

This was disclosed today by Captain Charles W. Steadman, head of the ordnance district's legal section, who also said war orders placed with manufacturers in northern and eastern Ohio and northwestern Pennsylvania now total more tha $1,000,000,000.

Captain Steadman reported all the $15,000,000 had been paid to the government since last April, when a law requiring renegotiation of contracts to eliminate unreasonable profits became effective.

To enforce this statute, Col. H. M. Reedall, deputy chief of the ordnance district, has named a three-man price adjustment board to renegotiate all army contracts in this area amounting to $100,000 or more. Similar boards have been set up in other ordnance districts.

NINTH NAVAL AREA IMPORTANT TO WAR

Commander Cites Role Played by 13 States.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24 — The war can be won or lost in the 13 states promising the ninth naval district, says Commander Felix M. McWhirter, district security officer.

The district includes Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Pointing out that this region produces two-thirds of the material for the armed services, most of the nation's food and 95 per cent of its iron ore, Commander McWhirter told the Ohio State Safety conference here:

"You are to be commended for the forward and aggressive manner in which you, through your (safety) organizations, have prosecuted the highest type of conservation, the conservation of manpower.

"You are helping to discipline a large segment of the people. You realize that this war can be lost, and you should realize that this war can be lost in the ninth naval district. You are helping to win the war, and you will continue to help win the war."

BRITISH AGAIN ASK FRENCH COOPERATION

London Warns Allied Offensive To Be Launched.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 24—Declaring that the United Nations are preparing for an offensive against Germany which will be launched without warning, the British radio appealed anew to the French people last night to cooperate by evacuating French coastal areas.

"In the course of our military operations," the message said, "it was necessary, and today it is more necessary than ever, to envisage the possibility of landings by British and allied troops on French soil, of operations by our navy in French territorial waters, and attacks by the RAF on military objectives in occupied France.

"An offensive of the United Nations is being prepared. On the day when we can be assured of attaining our goal—which is nothing less than the annihilation of Hitlerite Germany—this offensive will be launched.

"No one will be warned in advance on the attack or the point at which it will take place, but when the moment comes to call for the operation of the French people as a whole we will keep our promise to let you know in time."

OHIO GUARDS AGAINST SABOTAGE OF FOOD

Brown Cites Work To Protect Health of Stock.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 24—Ohio is guarding against sabotage of food production by disease bacteria among its livestock, Agriculture Director John T. Brown reported today.

War periods have been characterized by increased sickness and epidemics among cattle, he told Gov. Bricker in a report covering an 18-month period. Ohio's fight against bangs disease and its tuberculosis eradication program are two of the steps being taken.

The danger is more acute and regulatory officials must be more viligant because the armed services have taken more than 100 veterinarians, one-fifth of the state's total, he asserted.

The report, covering the period of Jan. 1, 1941, through June 30, 1942, also disclosed that dehydration has become a "vital and permanent Ohio industry."

Sixty plants are producing foods in "concentrated forms, which saves valuable space to defeat the submarine menace," the report stated. Sixteen produce condensed milk, 10 dried skim milk, three dried eggs and 31 use the department's service on poultry, butter and egg shells.

Education, inspection and grading have helped enlarge the poultry industry until it has became the second largest source of cash income for farmers, the report said.

A Promise for Tomorrow

By ELEANOR ATTERBURY

CHAPTER SEVEN

Beneath The Surface

JULIE nearly forgot about the tanned stranger and the mysterious green phaeton in the next busy week. The epidemic of measles spread relentlessly, striking at adults, taking great toll of Julie's time and energy. She spared herself not at all, trying to carry all of the work left over from her father's huge burden.

"You'll have to let some of your calls go," Dr. Tom advised her one morning when she appeared at the breakfast table, pale and hollow-eyed after a scant two hours' sleep. "Send a yelling nurse. Telephone. Don't give so much of yourself."

"But Dad—that's what I want to do. That's what you are doing, isn't it?"

He smiled at her slowly. "You're a stout soldier, Julie. But I'm warning you."

"Don't worry about me, Daddy. Never felt better."

Hulda thumped a plate of bacon and scrambled eggs down before her. "Mister Rogers vants you should call him ven you are awake and Miss Kelland vants to talk right now but I tolding her your eggs ver hot."

Laughing, Julie pushed back from the table, ran across the hall to the library.

"Julie darling." Dawn's voice came high-pitched and shrill with nervousness across the wire. "Could you possibly stop by this morning. I need to see you quite desperately."

"Certainly. In about an hour," Julie promised, puzzled. Surely the call wasn't for professional service, she realized instantly. Dawn, like her father, had always insisted on seeing Dr. Tom. What, then?

"Thanks, darling. That's marvelous of you."

The phone clicked and Julie went thoughtfully back to her breakfast. "Is Mr. Kelland doing better now?"

Dr. Tom glanced over the top of his newspaper. "A little light stroke. He can talk quite plainly now. Something on his mind now, I've a hunch. It's that that holds him back."

"Any idea what it could be?"

"Not much. Money, chiefly."

"Money! Impossible. He's worth millions."

"Maybe." Her father went back to his paper. "Probably tied up, though. Understand he's sold out all his holdings on Main Street for a lot less than they're probably worth."

"Drink your milk now, yust like a good girl," Hulda coaxed and set a huge tumbler before her.

"Some other time, Hulda. I'm in a hurry now." She smiled, patted the woman's hard, rosy cheek, dropped a kiss on her father's forehead and caught up her bag as she sped through the hall.

Too Demure for Truth

Dawn was waiting for her in the sunny rose parlor, the only intimate, cozy room in the whole huge house. In soft white housecoat and mules, she looked more like a little girl playing dress-up. All, that is, save her eyes. There was nothing girlish about the expression there, Julie noticed instantly.

"Julie, you're an angel to come." She motioned to her to sit down in the big wing chair opposite the sofa where Dawn sat curled like a soft white kitten. "I simply had to talk to you and I knew of no better way than to call you here."

"You're not sick, then, I take it?" Julie asked, smiling wryly.

"Not exactly." Dawn's smile seemed a little forced. "What I really want is to ask you a favor."

"What is it?"

"Will you help me persuade Pete to go to Riverport with his father tomorrow?"

Julie stared at her. "Riverport? What for?"

Dawn's blue eyes faltered, went down before the startled question. "Well—probably you'll think I am unduly alarmed—"

She hesitated so Julie prodded her quickly. "Alarmed — about what?"

"I have a feeling that he is in danger here. Things I've seen—felt—"

"What things?"

"Well—I can't say exactly."

"Why not?"

"Because — it involves confidences—and nothing that I could prove. Still, I do so want him to leave for awhile—just to be sure."

Exasperated, Julie groaned. "What in heaven's name are you talking about, Dawn? None of this makes sense."

"I know." She looked up, her eyes hard with determination now. "If I told you that I know Pete is in danger, will you help me?"

"Of course. But I can't see why Pete—"

Dawn rose suddenly, paced the room nervously. "Pete is a key man. You know that. He's the one that is directly responsible for the success down at the shipyards. You know that, too. Why wouldn't he be in the greatest danger."

"Danger from what?"

"Enemy agents."

Confession of Love

Julie, remembering the hysteria of the night Harry Kelland had been stricken, held her tongue a moment now. Then, gently, "Naturally the enemy would like to see Pete out of the way. But, Dawn dear, the enemy first has to get to him. And the shipyards teem with guards, you know."

"Yes—still I want Pete to go. His father has offered to let him take charge of the new yards up at Riverport. He'd be out of the way here then and—"

Julie heard the rising tension in her voice. "All right. Perhaps it is a good idea. Not that I think my influence will have any weight with Pete."

"Oh but it will. You've always been such close friends. And I know he respects your opinion. You're so terribly clever."

Julie counted to ten before she said quietly, "Pete's pretty apt to make up his own mind, isn't he?"

"Of course,"—automatically and Julie wasn't at all convinced.

She watched Dawn slipping her tiny foot in and out of the soft furry mule.

"I suppose you've guessed why I am concerned about Pete's safety," with a sudden shyness that didn't quite ring true.

"Guessed—what?" Julie waited, her own pulses not steady.

"That I'm in love with him." She announced it almost defiantly.

"Why—that's—swell, isn't it?"

She flung her arms about Julie then, dropped to her knees beside her. "Oh, it's marvelous, Julie. He's so wonderful! I've never been in love before, you know. I just don't dare believe this is the real thing this time."

But Julie could believe it. Who wouldn't, her heart echoed dully, fall in love with Pete!

"I wanted you to know about it before—I mean—well, before anyone else," Dawn went on, talking fast. "I know you've always been so fond of him. I wasn't sure what the understanding was between you and—"

Julie gently freed herself, rose. "Nothing at all, Dawn. I've no claims—whatever." She was sure now that she had learned the real reason behind Dawn's strange summons. Just how much of a hold did she have on Pete? In the same instant, Julie was fairly sure that Dawn's sudden "first love" for Pete wasn't that at all.

Julie drove slowly to the office, slowly enough to allow time to separate the chaff of Dawn's words from the wheat of her meaning.

Lesson in Rationing

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — When Keenan Wynn, son of comedian Ed Wynn, leaves New York henceforth, he'll remember to take his gas ration card.

Recently the young actor and his wife were returning from a week-end visit in upper New York state, when they ran out of gasoline 200 miles from Manhattan. They discovered they had left their gas ration card in their city apartment. Wynn finally made a deal with a passing truck driver to tow his car in.

After arriving Wynn had to help the driver unload 90 drums of gasoline at 3:30 a. m. on a dock.

STRIKE THREATENS ALUMINUM OUTPUT

225 Smelting Workers Walk Out at Cleveland.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24—Curtailment of war production in the Aluminum Co of America's five Newburgh Heights plants was threatened today by a strike of 225 CIO smelting plant workers, a company spokesman said.

After the shift of 75 furnace tenders and helpers refused to return to work last night, the company reported production of aircraft parts in its own and other Cleveland plants would be affected unless the strike ended soon. It started Tuesday midnight.

After the employes, members of the CIO mine, mill and smelter workers union, walked out, an ALCOA spokesman said they presented no grievances or demands.

Alex Balint, regional director for the union, declared the walkout unauthorized.

The strike came as the union considered bonus rates proposed by the company after a study begun last June, when the same men struck, the company reported. The study was to have been completed in 20 days, but when additional time was needed an agreement was reached for continuation of work.

Two Leave To Begin Workhouse Sentences

August Ottmiller, 78, of 1110 Bennett street, who pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three months in the Columbus workhouse by Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen, was taken to the workhouse today by Sheriff W. J. Harrell and Deputy LeRoy Retterer.

Ottmiller was arraigned in municipal court yesterday on a charged filed by his wife, Mrs. Etta Ottmiller, 70. The wife charged Ottmiller with beating her during a family quarrel.

Jacob Withers, 22, also was taken to the Columbus workhouse to serve a sentence of one year for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Withers, who was given a suspended sentence to the workhouse when he was arraigned in juvenile court Tuesday afternoon, broke the terms of the suspension and was brought into court yesterday afternoon and the sentence ordered into effect by Judge Oscar Gast.

Another man, arrested with Withers, withdrew his plea of guilty and was released on $1,000 bond.

FINDLEY WITHDRAWS FROM COURT RACE

Elyria Judge Announces Decision to State Secretary.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 24—Common Pleas Judge Guy B. Findley of Elyria announced today his withdrawal as a candidate for the Ohio supreme court at the Nov. 3 election.

In a letter to Secretary of State John E Sweeney, Judge Findley said his action was prompted by the discovery of fraudulent names on petitions qualifying him as a candidate for the unexpired term of the late Judge Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati. Valid signatures on Judge Findley's petitions were sufficient to qualify him, however.

The withdrawal of Judge Findley, a Republican, left in the race Judge Charles S. Bell, Cincinnati Republican, and Thomas J. Duffy, Columbus Democrat.

Judge Findley was defeated at the August primary by Judge Roy Williams of Sandusky who was renominated for a full six-year supreme court term.

Citing the Cuyahoga county election board's action in disqualifying 3,200 names on his petition, Judge Findley said all of his Cuyahoga county petitions could have been thrown out and he still would have had sufficient signatures to qualify.

Hardin Co. Student Ends Life with Gun

Special to The Star

KENTON, Sept. 24 — Lyman Martin Kindle, 15, a sophomore in the Ada High school, ended his life by shooting himself through the heart about midnight last night, at his home, Forest Inn, a roadside cafe about 15 miles west of here, operated by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kindle.

According to Coroner John A. Mooney of Kenton, there was no known motive for the suicide. The youth had been dancing with some friends earlier in the evening and retired about 11:30 o'clock. The body was found by his mother about midnight when she followed her usual custom of visiting the rooms of her son and his 11-year-old sister before retiring. The body was lying across the bed over a 22-caliber rifle. According to the coroner the youth placed the butt of the gun on the bed and then pulled the trigger.

The family said they knew of no motive for the act, as the youth was of a happy disposition. The father told Coroner Moody that in a conversation earlier in the evening the boy expressed a desire to go squirrel hunting today but seemed agreeable to his suggestion that he attend school and postpone the hunting trip until Saturday.

Scrap Drive Plans Pushed

countywide drive last night when C. O. Brown, chairman of a district industrial salvage committee embracing Marion, Upper Sandusky, Mt. Gilead and Marysville, spoke at the meeting. He said the industries have been doing a "good job" since last spring in keeping scrap flowing into industrial channels, and that their activities during the three weeks of the countywide campaign will be credited to the drive. The salvage committee is hopeful that industries will make an especial effort to swell their scrap metal piles during that period.

Legion Pledges Aid

The county American Legion organization likewise pledged its wholehearted support of the countywide drive through L. M. Breithaupt, county commander. He said he will personally ask all posts in the county to participate.

Clyde C. Caldwell and George Alber, co-chairmen of the county salvage committee, emphasized last night that the sole purpose of the drive is to "get in the scrap" and that persons who wish to haul their own scrap to the junkyards and collect the money it will bring need not feel they are evading the purpose of the campaign. "Our whole purpose is to get the metal into the junkyards as quickly as possible—or at least to get it into scrap piles where it is available," Mr. Caldwell said. He pointed out that unless the scrap is assembled, particularly in the rural areas, before winter snows come, the prospects of getting it in from the fields will be slight. This is a big factor because factories already are running short of scrap metal in some cities, and the demand for it will increase during the winter months. Then, too, it is especially important because approximately 80 per cent of the nation's scrap metal is believed to be in rural areas. Also, the quality of farm scrap is generally superior to that that comes in city campaigns, Walter Malo, scrap dealer, commented last night.

Trucking Schedule

Mr. Krigbaum, in setting up his trucking phase of the drive, has arranged through the rural schools to have definite route lists made up before trucks are sent out. Also, someone from each school community will be designated to ride along with the truck to direct the driver in making his stops.

The county commissioners this morning authorized the use of county trucks and drivers in the campaign, and state highway department and U. S. army trucks, as well as trucks of business and industrial concerns, will be sought for use in the campaign.

Ministers will be asked to call attention of churchgoers to the campaign and to help make it a success.

One of the big items in the rural drive is expected to be unused wire fence. This scrap, for which there is ready use in war industry, will average around $10 a ton in value, the committee was told.

Meeting Friday Night

The county school phase of the drive will be intensified Friday night when the county teachers hold a meeting at Edison Junior High school to hear details of the campaign explained and also to hear Mrs. Richard H. Lawson, Marion woman who was at Pearl Harbor when it was attacked Dec. 7, tell of her experiences.

PARITY

the meeting together.

Other senators who attended and apparently favored the administration compromise included Democratic Leader Barkley, Kentucky, Senators Brown (D-Mich), Wagner (D, NY), Tydings (D-Md), O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), Taft (R-Ohio) and Reed (R-Kas).

Reed and Tydings had prepared the compromise proposal, which Thomas said was revised only slightly when it was offered at the meeting by administration leaders.

As they met, the situation shaped up like this:

1. An unofficial poll showed 10 of the 96 senators committed to support the principle of an upward parity revision, with 22 against, 19 undecided, eight declining comment and seven not reached.

2. Senator Thomas, Democrat of Oklahoma, co-author of the amendment, declared he and others of similar views could not accept a proposed compromise.

3. An authoritative source, declining to be quoted by name, said the administration was supporting this compromise, which would not disturb the present basis for computing parity, but would direct President Roosevelt to take into account farm labor costs in modifying price ceilings to correct "gross inequities."

4. This same source said that if the parity revision were included in any bill sent to the White House, President Roosevelt would veto it and could be expected then to take the initiative in fixing farm prices, as he threatened to do if congress did not act before Oct. 1.

5. There was a possibility that administration forces might abandon the legislation altogether, letting the President use his present wartime powers as he said he would.

Farm Groups Back Plan

Hailing the house action and predicting victory for the parity amendment in the senate, the leaders of four national farm organizations declared in a statement that "should the President veto the present legislation he must accept responsibility for the future food and fibre supply of the nation."

The farm leaders were Albert Goss of the National Grange, Edward O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation, H. E. Babcock of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives and Charles W. Holman of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation.

"Agriculture has made its fist compromise with hunger. We are solidly behind the Thomas farm labor amendment," said their statement.

Thus far the whole congressional controversy over the anti-inflation measure has centered on the proposed change in the parity standard. Based usually on 1909-14 farm prices, this standard is calculated to equalize the amount farmers pay for the things they buy with the amount they receive for what they sell.

The legislation would direct the President to stabilize prices, wages and salaries at Sept. 15 levels, so far as practical, but he could not order any ceiling placed on a farm commodity where the price of that article had not reached parity.

Add Labor Costs

Thomas and his co-sponsor, Senator Hatch, Democrat of New Mexico, proposed to move this level up at least 12 per cent by adding the cost of all farm labor to the items now used in computing parity, such as interest, taxes and freight charges.

The house wrote a similar formula into its bill by a standing vote of 163 to 105 yesterday and turned down a compromise proposal 174 to 128 on a teller vote. Final passage of the measure was by a vote of 284 to 96. This happened shortly after leaders adjourned the senate to forestall a showdown until compromise efforts could be made.

Their chances of obtaining senate approval of any compromise, however, appeared to rest largely with 19 senators who said they were undecided yet on how to vote.

This group included 12 Democrats and seven Republicans, many of them from farm states and some of whom said they were inclined toward support of the amendment.

Administration lieutenants were said to feel, however, that if they could wean some of the farm bloc members away from the Thomas-Hatch proposal with the proposed compromise, they could save the anti-inflation measure from an almost certain veto.

The argument most frequently emphasized by proponents of a higher parity level was that the attractive wages offered by war plants was making it impossible for the farmer to retain his helpers without increasing their pay.

How Congressmen from Ohio Voted

Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion, Republican representing the Eighth Congressional district, voted for the amendment writing higher parity prices for farm products into the anti-inflation bill and against the bill when it came up for passage, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, D. C.

The house vote found seven Ohio members voting "yes" and 14 "no" on the amendment. Nineteen Ohioans voted for the bill on passage and two, including Congressman Smith, against.

Congressman Clarence J. Brown of Blanchester, representing the Seventh district which includes Union county, and Congressman Harry McGregor of West Lafayette, representing the Seventeenth district which includes Delaware county, voted for the amendment and for the bill. Both are Republicans.

Infant Daughter Of Marion Co. Couple Dies

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD, Sept. 24 — Hazel Florence Jerew, infant child of Mr. and Mrs. William Jerew of two miles west of Green Camp, died this morning at the farm home after an illness of six days.

The child was born Oct. 25, 1940 in Richwood to William, a native of Marion county, and Dell Douglas Jerew, a native of Delaware county. The parents survive with seven children, Marion, Kenneth, William, Gerald, Maxine, Patty and Robert.

WOMEN MAKE 745 SURGICAL DRESSINGS

Leaders Pleased with First Day's Work in Marion.

Twenty-five women made 745 surgical dressings for the United States army yesterday at the opening of the latest phase of Marion's war work in the St. Mary community house.

Mrs. Warren Sawyer, chairman of the Marion County Red Cross chapter committee in charge of making the dressings, said this morning she was "well pleased" with the first day's results.

When the women volunteers become familiar with the task it is expected they will turn out at least 1,000 a day. The minimum quota any month will be 20,000 and probably the local quota will be double the minimum some months.

The community house will be open daily except Sundays, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon and 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. Within a week it is hoped that arrangements can be made to keep the house open evenings for those women who are employed daytimes and who have volunteered to make dressings at night.

Women of the city and county who wish to join in helping turn out the critically needed materials for the army may register at any time in the Red Cross office on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A. building on South State street.

Hitler May Lose War in Battle with His General

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

That quarrel between Herr Hitler and the commander-in-chief of his now-or-never offensive against the Caucasus, Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock, may prove to be the decisive battle of the war.

The basic strategy of the vital Caucasian campaign is said to be involved in the argument, which reportedly resulted in Von Bock being relieved of his command. The point at issue is described thusly:

Von Bock wanted to concentrate on the Caucasus and not attack Stalingrad at the same time. He maintained that an assault against the Volga city would be too costly in casualties. Not that the cold blooded Von Bock ever gave a damn about the lives of his men, but because he badly needed this fresh young manpower for his main show.

Hitler Wanted Stalingrad

It seems that the Nazi all highest insisted on the siege of Stalingrad. Von Bock bowed his stiff Prussian neck to the yoke, but apparently sulked as his drive was held up by the grand Red defense, and Nazi casualties strewed the approaches to the city like autumn leaves.

For careful analysis we must make allowance for the possibility that the report of a Hitler-Von Bock feud isn't true. But even so, we can get ahead with our study, because the fact still remains that the siege of Stalingrad has thrown the entire Nazi campaign plans out of kilter. Obviously this was undertaken at Hitler's order. At the same time it's easy to believe that a soldier of Von Bock's caliber would oppose such a risky experiment.

Looking at the position today, as the Russians still continue to throw back the Stalingrad invaders, it appears that the infallible Hitler's intuition has failed him at the crucial moment. Von Bock seems the winner, strategically speaking.

Of course they approached the problem from different viewpoints—Hitler from that of political strategy and his captain solely from the military angle.

Held Different Views

It's not difficult to see the workings of their minds. Von Bock, every inch the expert soldier, saw only that the outcome of the war likely depended on Germany's ability to break into the oil-bearing Caucasus and the strategic Middle East this year, and in the process annihilate Red Marshal Timoshenko's armies of the south. If that could be accomplished Germany would have a victory-grip which would be hard to break. Stalingrad was a side-issue to Von Bock.

Hitler also undoubtedly saw it was imperative to conquer the Caucasus and the Middle East for his other operations indicate this. Probably at the outset of the great drive he was in complete agreement with Von Bock. However, as time went on and the Russian resistance became menacing, Hitler developed a new scheme to secure help.

He saw the political value of the capture of the city. Stalingrad stands as a symbol of Russian strength, and the Nazi chief wanted to crack it for the moral effect at home and abroad.

Most of all he wanted to influence Japan to attack Russia from the rear. The capture of Stalingrad might turn the trick. So one of the greatest gamblers of all time took another long chance.

But not even Hitler can guess right all the time. We need to see the outcome of the next month of fighting, but the indications now are that military history will say he threw away his chances of winning the war when he forced Von Bock to embark on what probably has been the costliest siege ever undertaken.

Marion and Martel Cars in Accidents

Ralph J. Stroll of West Milton, O., and Charles Heimlich of 1022 East Church street were drivers of cars which figured in a minor traffic accident at the intersection of West Center and Prospect streets early last night.

A car driven by H. K. Seckel, 47, of 234 South State street and another driven by George W. Snarrock, 81, of Martel, were slightly damaged in a minor collision at 3 p. m. yesterday at the intersection of East Church and South State streets.

AUSTRALIANS HOLD JAPS IN NEW GUINEA

Renewal of Fighting Reported in Mountains.

By The Associated Press

Australian jungle fighters were reported holding firmly today amid a renewal of fighting in the New Guinea mountains, 32 miles from Port Moresby, while allied warplanes strafed Japanese troops and blasted enemy supply bases.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said casualties were suffered on both sides in clashes on the southern slope of the Owen Stanley range, but there was no indication of any further Japanese advance.

Continuous aerial strafing of the enemy communication lines was reported hindering the Japanese efforts to keep forward troops supplied.

A United Nations communique said allied fighters made three sweeps over the key Japanese base at Buna, New Guinea, raking seven enemy barges with cannon and machine-gun fire and blasting supply dumps. Earlier, allied bombers dropped one-ton bombs on the Buna airdrome in a night assault, setting big fires.

In the China campaign, a Chinese army spokesman reported a lull in fighting along the entire front, broken only by minor skirmishes.

The spokesman withheld comment on reports that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was gathering strength for a Chinese counter-offensive in the spring.

In London, the British announced officially that the French garrison at Tananarive, Madagascar capital, surrendered unconditionally yesterday and British troops occupied the capital just a fortnight after their landing on the west coast in a move to eliminate the 1,000-mile-long island as an axis base.

OLD FORT

controlling interest of Old Fort Mills, Inc., Mr. McMillen announced that it was a private enterprise. The controlling interest was bought from Pete Tsouras and his brother Rollie Tsouras and Charles Stitt. The Tsouras brothers and Mr. Stitt have severed their connections with the company and will not be connected with its future operations.

Hugo Malo, president and general manager for the past six months, announced he would retire from the active management of the company on Oct. 1. He further stated that at the next meeting of the board of directors Walter E. Flumerfelt was to be elected vice president and general manager, to become effective Oct. 1 first.

Former Iowa Man

Mr. Flumerfelt was until recently manager of the Soya Processing Co., which owns and operates a solvent expeller soybean crushing plant at Waterloo, Iowa. He is a director of the National Soybean Processors' association, and a member of the Soybean Crushers [illegible] Advisory committee of the War Production Board. He is a graduate of Cornell University, and has been identified with the soybean crushing industry since 1923.

The Old Fort Mills, Inc., plant is equipped with six expellers of the French type; has a crushing capacity of approximately [illegible] bushels of soybeans, and a refining capacity of about [illegible] bushels per month.

Mr. McMillen's present plans call for keeping the plant operating at maximum capacity in an effort to keep the greatest possible quantities of valuable soybean oil flowing into wartime channels.

HEALTH DIRECTORS MEET

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 24—Health commissioners considered proposed changes in the health law at the concluding session of their annual convention today. Suggestions include giving county boards control of health administration and eliminating local boards in cities with populations of less than 100,000; placing health commissioners under state civil service; creating a state food and milk commission, and free distribution of vaccines and anti-toxins.

WE'RE LOSING, NAVY AID SAYS

Shipworkers Are Given Blunt Warning of Tough Days Ahead.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 — Ralph H. Bard, assistant secretary of the navy, told a meeting of shipbuilding workers that "We are losing this war," and "We should damn well understand it."

Declaring that "We are whistling in a graveyard to keep from facing reality," Bard said that after depicting the dangers with which the nation is confronted he should wind up his speech "with predictions of a glorious finish of our uphill fight."

"But I am not going to do it," he declared. "We are losing this war, period. And we should damn well understand it, period."

In an address prepared for delivery before the international convention of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO) Bard said the nation was afflicted with an "insufferable and materialistic pride" which has blinded it to the desperate nature of Nazi Germany's fight.

Blames Pressure Groups

The nation, he continued, was hampered by economic pressure groups in which he said he could find no "spirit of sacrifice," and also by persons who misled by "the amiable self-deception of using percentages" about munitions production, assume that "we can't lose the war."

The self-deception of percentages was a form of compensation developed after the blow to national egotism at Pearl Harbor, Bard said, and meant that "if two tanks in a 10,000-tank program rumbled out of a factory where one had before, we gloated that that production was up 100 per cent."

"We have been wrangling for months over a tax bill for 1942, which in plain language means that we have been fighting over who is going to pay how much for this catastrophe which has engulfed us," he asserted.

"The pressure of rival economic groups, each armed with unassailable statistics to show how much that group will suffer injustice if thus and so happens, has ebbed and flowed like the tides for 10 months. I fail to detect a spirit of sacrifice in these groups before congress.

"Neither does it indicate that we have a spiritual grasp of our threatening fate when we sell bonds to help finance a war of survival or extermination on the promise of profitable monetary returns on the investment.

"I see no fundamental grasp of our predicament in anti-union employers who sabotage production committees for fear that industry will be Sovietized, nor in labor union leaders who are so concerned about the competitive position of their own little groups as to examine the war with regard to how their own puny fortunes will be affected if labor unity is achieved or jurisdictional lines are eradicated . . ."

Bard said that Americans hoped to enlist the support of "the spotless masses of Latin America and our own Negroes" without having to do very much about the economic problems of either and also hoped that "the Russians will whip the Nazi but not be too unreasonable about spreading their uncomfortable doctrines outside Russia."

He called for a return to the "standard of democratic idealism, which means tolerance, humility, sacrifice and understanding of the meaning of human dignity."

"It is a standard fashioned for us long ago, in suffering and hardship, by our forefathers," he added. "We put it away and took instead the billboards which proclaimed us the strongest, greatest and most superlative people that ever put in two and set out five.

"We are still flexing our imaginary muscles and shouting: 'Wait till I catch that lug who hit me when I wasn't looking'."

Those on the committee are Rev. Carriker, S. D. Ross, Henry Ruhl, Mrs. W. F. Walker, Mrs. Charles Lamb, Mrs. Roxie Whysall, Mrs. H. E. Winters, Miss Virginia Jackson, Miss Ruth Wasserbach and Edward Converse. It was planned to open the community house for entertainment and social activities for war workers in the city.

A roll call of church organizations was taken and possible improvements in programs and in the church equipment was discussed. William Burley, church elder, talked on attendance at services and Miss Jackson spoke about young people's work. It was announced that the regular schedule of fall and winter services will begin Oct. 1. Members voted in favor of representation of the church in a county association of Protestant churches, plans for which are being considered by the Marion County Ministerial association.

A Christian Endeavor for junior high school students of the church will be organized soon under the supervisorship of Miss Betty Carriker, it was announced, and plans were made to observe Rally Day Sunday and World Wide Communion Sunday Oct. 4.

SEES FUTURE PEACE U. S. RESPONSIBILITY

President Says Colleges Must Meet Challenge.

By The Associated Press

HAMILTON, N. Y., Sept. 24—The American people must be kept "prepared to make a lasting and worthy peace," President Roosevelt declared today in a message to the inauguration of Everett N. Case as president of Colgate university.

The President's message, addressed to Case, 41-year-old former assistant dean of the Harvard graduate school of business administration, extended felicitations and said:

"The challenge of the new day for American colleges is very great. All our energies at the present must be devoted to winning the war. Yet winning the war will be futile if we do not throughout the period of its winning keep our people prepared to make a lasting and worthy peace. This time the peace must be global the same as the war has become global. Around the peace table the voice of the United States will have great weight. It is of tremendous importance that that voice shall represent the aspirations of a people determined that mankind everywhere shall go forward to its destiny. The soul of that destiny is maximum freedom of the human spirit.

"I congratulate you on the great opportunity that is yours and hope that you will find the keenest satisfaction in undertaking the difficult task."

LOUIS, CONN FIGHT PLANS IRK STIMSON

Plan To Pay Fighters Called Shocking.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—Secretary of War Stimson said today he was "shocked" over arrangements for the Joe Louis-Billy Conn championship prize fight and had started a personal investigation.

"I didn't know of the details until this morning," Stimson told his press conference. "I've been shocked at the situation.

"I am making a personal investigation which I hope to complete within 48 hours."

The war secretary's announcement was prompted by a question whether he would comment on the proposed Oct. 12 fight at the Yankee stadium in New York between Louis, the heavyweight champion, and Private Conn. He declined to state what details "shocked" him.

When original sanction for the fight was given on Sept. 8, the war department announcement said that the entire net proceeds would be turned over to the army emergency relief fund. The announcement said further that neither fighter nor any "private interest" would receive any return.

On Sept. 18, however, a change in this setup was announced by the committee of New York sports writers, named to handle the fight arrangements. Under the terms of this new setup, which the committee said had been approved by the war department, it was agreed that Louis would receive $100,951.53 to pay off obligations. Conn was to receive $31,500 for the same purpose.

Louis' obligations, as announced by the sports committee, consisted of $59,805.50 to the Twentieth Century Sporting club, of which Promoter Mike Jacobs is the head, and $41,146.03 to one of his managers, John Roxborough. Conn's obligations also was said to be to the Twentieth Century Sporting club.

Both fighters' indebtedness, it was said, consisted of sums advanced at various times by Jacobs and Roxborough for personal bills.

The sports committee's announcement followed a stormy session at which it is known that some members were opposed to the plan. The committee said that it had found it "impossible to conduct the fight under the original plan suggested by the war department "under the terms of which no private interest would have benefitted.

"Upon investigation," the committee announcement said, "it was found that there were commitments and obligations with regard to sums of money owed by the soldier contestants in this fight. In order that the fight may go forward it is incumbent upon the committee to meet the sums of money owed by these soldiers to private interests."

It has been estimated in some quarters that total expenses for the fight would run somewhere close to $300,000. Estimates of the total gate have run as high as $10,000,000.

By The Associated Press

The effect of the amendment, if adopted, would be to stay an increase to 2 per cent on employes and a like amount on employers which automatically would go into effect January 1.

FARM LABOR DRAWS HOUSE ATTENTION

Leaders Express View Government Won't Act.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—Apparently convinced that government officials intend to do nothing now about a farm labor shortage, members of the house agriculture committee today were reported on the verge of drafting legislation to deal with the problem.

Before taking any such action though, Chairman Fulmer (D-SC) said the committee would seek the opinion tomorrow of Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hersney, selective service director, and possibly later that of Paul V. McNutt, war manpower commission head.

"It may be that General Hershey will have some recommendations," Fulmer said. "At that rate, we want to hear his views and try to get an idea of the manpower needs for the armed forces."

After hearing Secretary of Agriculture Wickard warn that failure to relieve the farm labor shortage would make it necessary "in the not too distant future to deal with a shortage of food," Fulmer told reporters:

"The secretary offered us no real solution to the problem which he admitted was grave. It is beginning to look like government officials will not do anything about it until an actual food shortage stares them right in the face. It might be too late then."

Rather than wait until then Fulmer added, committee members believe they should take "an aggressive attitude and seek to solve the problem themselves."

What form any proposed legislation would take was highly uncertain. Fulmer himself has advocated payment of higher prices to farmers for their products to enable them to compete in the labor market with war factories. Some form of government subsidy might be necessary to bring this about, he conceded.

Other members have indicated they favored drafting workers and assigning them to fields where they were urgently needed, with selective service officials making the decisions. Still others believe farm labour should be deferred from military service and required to remain on the farms.

Larry French's One-Hitter for Dodgers is Futile as Cards Defeat Reds

Lefty Larry Hurls Greatest Game of Career To Give Brooklyn a 6-0 Win.

By The Associated Press

IN 65 YEARS the National league, the oldest baseball organization in the world, has had only one season in which winning 100 games was not sufficient to win the pennant—until this year.

The Brooklyn Dodgers won their 100th game yesterday and it didn't move them even one wisp closer to the championship. That's why the St. Louis Cardinals are making preparations to face the New York Yankees in the world series opener next Wednesday.

The Dodgers reached the 100 victory mark last year on the last day of the season. It was the occasion for a lot of whoop-la because the Dodgers, in all their years in the senior circuit, never had won that many games before. But winning a hundred this year didn't mean a thing.

Rag No. 100

Brooklyn bagged No 100 yesterday as old Lefty Larry French marked up one of the finest pitching performances of all times. He pitched a one-hitter, and a single by Nick Etten that got past Shortstop Peewee Reese not only kept the veteran southpaw from a no-hitter but also from a perfect game. The laughing boy never walked a man, never let anyone get to first base except Etten, who was erased in a double play, and altogether pitched to the minimum of 27 batters.

This remarkable outing brought the Dodgers a 6-0 triumph over the Phils, but it didn't save them from imminent elimination in the pennant fight because the Cardinals also triumphed in a night game against Cincinnati, 4-2.

This made it possible for the Cardinals to clinch the pennant today if they win again from the Reds and the Dodgers lose to Boston.

Even though the Dodgers remained 2½ games behind the lead by winning yesterday, they can do no better than tie if St. Louis wins one of its remaining three games.

Rally To Win

The Cardinals came from behind last night to down the Reds, who scored both their runs in the first inning on a walk, an error, a wild pitch and a single. After the first frame Cincinnati made only one hit — a total of two for the game—off Rookie Johnny Beazley as he attained his 20th triumph of the season.

St. Louis smacked Bucky Walters for nine safeties, three of them by Stan Musial, and won handily with three runs in the third and another in the seventh.

While the National league squabble was continuing unabated the New York Yankees, secure with their sixth American league championship in seven years, trimmed the Washington Senators, 4-1, on the five-hit hurling of big Ernie Bonham. This closed the Yanks' home season and left them with only one game at Boston Sunday, to play before they enter the world series next Wednesday.

No other games were scheduled in the major leagues yesterday.

NAVY MENTOR SEES STRING OF 9 LOSSES AHEAD FOR MIDDIES

This is another in a series on football prospects at major colleges

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 24—Navy is battening down the hatches for one of the stormiest football cruises the sailor gridmen have been asked to take in many a year.

Minus nine of last year's starters Comdr. John E. (Billick) Whelchel has inherited only six experienced players from his predecessor, marine corps Lieut. Col. Emory E. (Swede) Larson, and he won't say much about the future.

"Prospects? We have no prospects. We've just got nine walloping football games that must be played."

Navy opens Saturday against a versatile and powerful William and Mary, and Whelchel says there'll be new faces in the Middies' starting line-up then and every time they go to the post this season.

"Losing two classes by last year's graduations, we just haven't any veteran material worth talking about," he asserted. "Navy will draw heavily upon reserves throughout the year. The reserves who look good will be promoted swiftly."

Whelchel's forces were increased in number when the naval academy decided to permit plebes to participate in varsity sports, but the doughty coach isn't

However, two of the young-admitting he has been helped anysters, Dave Barksdale and Ben Martin, have shown enough class to work into the second string backfield and are certain to see action as understudies to Quarterback Clyde Siegfried and Halfback Ted Gilliland respectively.

Capt. Alan Cameron, Larson's fullback of 1941, is figured to be even better at tailback this year, shouldering most of the sailors' offensive burden. Challenges may come from stocky Johnny Beckett; Jeff Davis and a plebe passer from Lonoke, Ark., Harold Hamberg.

Hillis Hume of Alliance, O., and Wayne Nelson, up from last year's topnotch plebe squad, are handling fullback chores but neither has developed Cameron's finesse at line-smashing.

Hume was an outstanding back in his high school days, having led Buckeye scholastic ball toters in scoring a couple of season's back.

Whelchel emphasizes that none of his players are standouts. He'll venture only that Navy successes this year depend upon how far the sailors' spirit and determination—plus the "all for one" teamwork formula—can take navy through a hazardous schedule.

The schedule: Sept. 26, William and Mary; Oct. 3, Virginia; Oct. 10, Princeton; Oct. 17, Yale; Oct. 24, Georgia Tech; Oct. 31, Notre Dame; Nov. 7, Pennsylvania; Nov. 14, Columbia; Nov. 28, Army.

LITTLE WORLD SERIES INAUGURAL TONIGHT

Either Breechen or Crouch To Hurl for Red Birds.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 24—The International league and American association hit the home stretch of their baseball campaigns here tonight as Syracuse and Columbus tangle in the first game of the four-out-of-seven junior world series.

The clubs finished third in their respective flag races, but came through the Shaughnessy playoffs with flying colors, each taking four in a row in the final series of the intra-mural classics.

Pitchers are expected to bear the brunt of the 25th little world series, since neither club is noted for its fielding or batting.

The first two games of the series are scheduled here, with the Saturday, Sunday and Monday tilts at Syracuse, and the remainder, if necessary, back on the Columbus lot.

Manager Jewel Ens of Syracuse has nominated Clayton Patrick Lambert, big right-hander, as his starting moundsman, while Skipper Eddie Dyer hasn't decided between Harry Brecheen, southpaw, and Bill Crouch, right-hander.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—On behalf of west coast fans, Col. Russ Newland takes issue with this corner's recent nomination of Gunder Haegg as the year's outstanding athlete . . . Russ points out that Cornelius (Dutch) Warmerdam, the pole vault champ, is the only man ever to clear 15 feet officially . . . And he's done it 14 times this year and 26 times in all since April, 1940 . . . We're still inclined to rate Haegg's running at various difficult distances above Connie's consistency at one feat . . . However, we agree that Warmerdam is in line for the Sullivan Memorial award, which he almost won last year . . . He's a standout among American athletes and there's no question about his qualifying as a sportsman, leader, etc. . . . The secretary will cast one affirmative vote.

Harding, St. Mary Drill for Opening Games This Week

Marion Harding and St. Mary gridders complete finishing touches today for their opening football battles here over the week-end.

Harding's Presidents, defending champions of the North Central Ohio conference, run up the curtain on Marion's 1942 football tomorrow night at 8:30 at Harding stadium. Columbus West, one of the capital city's toughest elevens, is Harding's opening game opposition.

For several weeks Levi Welch, custodian of buildings and grounds of the public school system, has been in charge of work on the field and installation of a new electric scoreboard, the gift of R. T. Lewis, Marion realtor.

On Saturday night an inexperienced St. Mary team will tackle Tiffin Calvert in a game at 8 p. m. also set for the stadium. Calvert opened its season last week by repulsing Galion's Orangemen, 19-0.

Harding is scheduled to workout under the lights of Harding stadium tonight at 7:45. The varsity squad will run through plays and hold punting and passing drills.

St. Mary will hold its final practice period before Saturday's game tomorrow afternoon at the Aronhalt lot on North Prospect street. Coach Gene Fetter has already picked his starting line-up and the picked eleven will oppose a second string in a light scrimmage.

BIG TEN WATCHES GAMES THIS WEEK

Main Battles Will Reveal Possible Champs.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 24 — The Western conference expects to get the answers to several pertinent football questions this week.

One concerns the strength of the Great Lakes and the Iowa naval pre-flight school teams. The other has to do with the championship possibilities of Michigan and Northwestern.

The answers all are wrapped up in the Saturday meetings of Great Lakes and Michigan at Ann Arbor, and the Iowa Cadets and Northwestern at Evanston.

Scouts from many conference schools will be watching the two games. The Great Lakes team will meet five Big Ten elevens, the Cadets four. Michigan has five future conference foes and Northwestern, six.

Among the four teams involved, all that interest may be redoubled and redoubled, for Michigan and Northwestern meet later and each also will play the other service squad.

Along with these two encounters, the conference will be watching the outcome of the Wisconsin - Notre Dame engagement. Notre Dame also has dates with three other conference members and Wisconsin with five.

MAC PHAIL QUITS AS DODGER BOSS; TO BE COMMISSIONED SOON

World War I Captain Will Not Return to Baseball.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—Larry MacPhail, colorful president of the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball club, is leaving the "stumbling" bums for duty in a bigger league—Uncle Sam's army.

Rumors that MacPhail was leaving the National league champions to join the army came out in the open last night, and although the Bums' prexy didn't resign formally, he did sever his connection with the team at a special meeting of the Dodgers directors. The directors accepted and said no successor has been chosen.

Afterward MacPhail disclosed that he expected to be commissioned in the field artillery Sunday, the day the major league season closes, although the fact that his beloved Bums are close to being squeezed out of the National league pennant had no bearing on his action.

World War I Captain

MacPhail, who was a captain in the first World war and took part in the effort of a handful of the A.E.F. to kidnap the kaiser after the Armistice, has been striving to return to uniform ever since the United States became involved in this war.

It was with tears in his eyes last night that he said his farewell.

"I'm not figuring on coming back to baseball," he said. "I've resigned my connection with the Dodgers and from now on it's up to somebody else."

MacPhail was asked if he thought a change was needed in the Dodgers' lineup—whether he would make one if he were staying—and he replied emphatically: "Yes! You bet your life some changes are needed."

No one could guess on whom the new mantle of Brooklyn leadership might fall. Both Bill Terry and Branch Rickey, farm executives of the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals, respectively, have been mentioned, as have various lieutenants in MacPhail's present organization.

There also was doubt as to whether Manager Leo Durocher would remain as the field leader, regardless of winning or losing the pennant this year. It was understood he has applied for a navy commission.

MacPhail entered the big leagues from the Columbus club of the American association, a Cardinal farm of which he was president. After the 1933 season he became general manager of the Cincinnati Reds and rejuvenated that club with astute trading and the introduction of night baseball to the major leagues.

He came to the Dodgers in 1938 when the club was held in hock by the Brooklyn Trust company and paid off practically all its debts. He was so successful that the directors elevated him from general manager to president and last year gave him a new five-year contract that would have paid him $75,000 a year.

Battle Royal Is Feature Of Armory Mat Card Tonigh

Buddy Knox Heads Star Cast in Free-for-All Event.

An all-star card bringing together all-star performers is on tap for Marion wrestling fans at the armory tonight in the first program of the fall series.

Buddy Knox, Mariano Angelo, Wild Bill Zimovich, Axel Madsen, Fred Carone and Billy Venable will clash in a battle royal card, the first to be staged here in several weeks.

Never in Marion ring history has six men been so evenly matched and prepared to fight each other All six have appeared here sometime in recent weeks and a lot of hatred has been built up by all of the competitors.

For instance Mariano Angelo would like to get a chance to whip Buddy Knox, who defeated him in last week's semi-final match. For that matter, Angelo, the bare-footed bully from Canada would like to win over almost anybody. While he's provided plenty of action for local mat fans, Angelo has enjoyed an honest to goodness victory for several weeks. A victory over Jack Bloomfield almost two months ago was Angelo's last win. Later Bloomfield downed Angelo to even the score against him.

Likewise Bill Venable and Wild Bill Zimovich—and he's just as wild as his name infer—would like nothing better than to whip some of the other wrestlers whom they call sissies. Since only two men come out on top in a battle royal, fans are in for some real fighting when the toughies mix it up after disposing of their weaker colleagues.

While not as fast as the popular tag team fight, battle royal programs provide plenty of thrills for the wrestling audience. Personalities such as the six signed for tonight's fight can make a battle royal even more interesting.

At one moment, Billy Venable and Wild Bill Zimovich may team against Angelo at the start of the fight, but a moment later it may be the opposite. In a battle royal the least little thing may turn one fighter against another.

The first two fighters expelled from the battle royal drop out and will not return. The next two to lose come back for the one-hour semi-final bout and the two remaining fighters clash in the two-hour main-go. Winner of the final match is recognized as the winner of the battle royal

All six fighters are on their own at the start of the fight. The first two to lose are paid expense money only. The semi-finalists are paid the usual semi-final money and the finalists get main-go pay.

Powerful Infield Favors Yankees In Forthcoming World Series Games

Yanks' Phil Rizzuto and Cards' Martin Marion Nearly Equal; Rolfe and Gordon Surpass St. Louis Stars.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—With one exception, the same Yankee infield that won Brooklyn's hopes with brilliant plays in the '41 series will be in there performing—miracles again in the first wartime play-offs which start from today.

The only newcomer to the champion inner works is Buddy Hassett who has replaced Johnny Sturm at first base. While he is not exactly a ball of fire, Buddy is at least as good a first sacker as Sturm—his hitting having been important improvement; there he seemed to "pull" them in the field.

Incomparable Joe Gordon still holds down second base and three feet to his right or left of adjacent territory little Phil Rizzuto scampers about like a rabbit around the shortstop and the veteran Red Rolfe at third is in better health than he was a year ago. It is, without much argument, the best infield in baseball and considerably better than that of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Also Surpass Dodgers

To cover any possible contingencies, it might be added that the Yankee quartet also is better than Brooklyn's, as it demonstrated conclusively in the '41 series.

Yankee partisans do not go so far as to claim that Gordon is better than he was a year ago, even though his season batting average is nearly 50 points higher. They are perfectly content to say that Joe is "just as good." What they do think, though, is that Rizzuto has taken on a little added polish by having played another season with the Flash.

Rolfe was a very sick third baseman during the '41 series and was not able to play a game until mid-season this year, but since then his health has improved slowly and surely and he declares he feels strong enough to hustle right through even a seven-game series.

That is the Yank infield—a great one mainly because it includes valuable player in baseball. He Gordon, perhaps the most hit .500 in the '41 series, including a double, a triple and a home run; knocked in five of the Yankees' 16 runs and fielded sensationally.

Pair of Stars

About the best that can be said for the Cardinals' inner defense is that it numbers a couple of the National league's outstanding stars—Martin (Slats) Marion at short and Jimmy Brown on second. Johnny Hopp, playing his first full season at first, has not lived up to his promise of last year. George Kurowski, a rookie, has played fine ball during the Cards' pennant dash, but he scarcely stacks up for world series purposes against a man of Rolfe's experience.

Marion, after putting on some 20 pounds of needed weight, has developed into a near-sensation at shortstop this year. He would have to be rated at least the equal of Rizzuto in any department, and he has shown more speed and fire lately than the Yank half-pint.

Brown is perhaps the most valuable all-around infielder in the National league. He is a "ball-players' ball-player," a born scrapper and a terror on the base paths. He has been the heart and spirit of the Cards' terrific last-half drive. But he is not the equal of Gordon, and there's no use pretending.

With Frankie Crosetti and Gerry Priddy ready to step into any vacancy from first to third, the Yankees hold a good edge over the Cards in infield replacements.

ADIOS IS WINNER OF DELAWARE RACE

Today's Event Attracts Ten Hambletonian Starters.

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 24—The first 10 finishers in the $40,000 Hambletonian compete today at the Delaware Grand Circuit meeting in a race that may unscramble the confused three-year-old trotting situation.

Cannon Ball outdistanced the Ambassador, Hambletonian winner, and a crack field at Milwaukee, and Ambassador is out to avenge the defeat. A threat to both is Miss Thelma, a filly not eligible for the Hambletonian.

Other top stars in the $2,500 C. of C. trot are Pay Up, Scotland's Comet, Seven Up, Follow Me, Mable Hanover, Green Diamond and Paxton Hanover.

Thomas Thomas' Adios stepped off the fastest two-heat event ever paced by two-year-olds over a half-mile track in winning the $2,500 feature race of yesterday's program. His time was 2:04½ and 2:06.

Adios, driven by Rube Parker, got away slowly both times, then drove to the front to win in straight heats. Hugh M. (Doc) Parshall's Kings Counsel was second.

Milestone, a Delaware entry, won the free-for-all trot; Little Evie by Preakness-Chiquita Hanover took the 20 class trot and Fearless Peter, brown gelding by Peter Volo-Peggy Guy, edged High Pat in a $500 pace that went to four heats.

WAR BOARD STRIPS DOWN FOR ACTION

Further Streamlining To Step Up Decisions.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—A further streamlining of the war production board was disclosed today when it became known that war plant sites will be selected hereafter by a single, small committee.

The new, quick-action committee will be composed of one officer each from the army, army air force, navy and maritime commission, under an order signed but not yet announced.

The action was confirmed by Col. Gordon E. Textor, a regular army officer loaned to WPB by the corps of engineers, who has been chosen executive director of the new "facility clearance board."

This board, it was learned, will replace two existing committees through which plant expansion proposals formerly had to be cleared.

The result, according to aids of WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson, should be to reduce to days, instead of weeks, the time frequently required to pass on plant projects.

It also will give the army air forces co-equal authority with the army itself, the navy and the maritime commission in deciding plant location problems.

The units to be dissolved are the facilities clearance committee, operating under the army-navy munitions board, which gave first clearance to projects initiated by the armed services, and the WPB's 14-member plant site board, which gave final approval.

Delaware Army Flier Killed

Staff Sgt. Riddle Dies in Plane Crash Week After Wedding.

Staff Sgt. Richard K. Riddle of Delaware, married a week ago, was one of seven army air force fliers killed in a plane crash near Perham, Me., on Tuesday, the war department yesterday notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Riddle of Delaware.

Last word received from Sergeant Riddle was on Sunday from a Massachusetts air base where he had been stationed since early in September, according to a news report from Delaware. His widow is the former Miss Margaret Scheiderer of Marysville.

In a letter he mentioned his impending transfer to another station and it is believed his squadron was shifted to Presque Isle this week. An uncle, Rodney Kellogg, lunched with him at Holyoke, Mass., last Friday, relatives said.

The war department notice to his parents came while army boards of inquiry were investigating almost simultaneous explosions of two army bombers flying 15 miles apart, which killed 14 men when the planes crashed into a wooded hill.

In Backwoods District

Both planes crashed in flames in a backwoods district shortly after taking off from the base at Presque Isle, one grazing the treetops over a highway before catching fire and the other, carrying Sergeant Riddle, crashing into the hill about 20 miles eastward.

After a difficult trek through six miles of wooded territory, soldiers from the Presque Isle base found the wreckage and base headquarters identified the victims. All members of the seven-man crew of which Riddle was a member, were killed in the explosion which accompanied the crash.

According to air corps officials, the planes were on a routine flight from the base and "crashed in limited visibility."

Enlisted in February

Sergeant Riddle enlisted in the army at Fort Hayes on Feb. 3 of this year and was assigned to Scott Field, Ill., for training in airplane radio operation. He previously attempted to enlist in the marine corps but was rejected because of color blindness.

When he completed the course at Scott Field he was sent to Walterboro Field, S. C., and attached to a bomb squadron for flight training. He graduated in July, was promoted to staff sergeant and was transferred to an air base in Massachusetts.

He was a graduate of Willis High school and of Ohio Wesleyan university and prior to his enlistment he was associated with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

On Sept. 16 he was married to Miss Mary Margaret Scheiderer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Scheiderer of Marysville.

The widow, a graduate of the St. Carmel hospital school of nursing in Columbus, is associated with the health department of Ohio Wesleyan university.

WHEAT PRICES UP TO RECENT HIGHS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 24 — Grain prices fluctuated nervously today as the futures market reflected anti-inflation developments in Washington.

Wheat was up about a cent early in the session, largely as a result of buying stimulated by advancement of legislation which would revise farm parity prices so that ceilings and loan rates would be higher than originally contemplated. This carried quotations to new highs for the past three or four months. Later there was a reaction due to profit taking, stimulated by talk that the President might veto legislation containing the higher parity provisions.

PROFIT TAKING CHECKS STOCKS

Mild Cashing Tends To Prevent Upswing of Prices in Today's Trading.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 — Rails and industrials kept up front of a further stock market advance today but the move was restricted more or less by light profit taking on the upswing.

The news still was bullish market-wise, with sentiment buoyed by mild inflation psychology emanating from action of the house in refusing to stem farm price parities. In addition, revived dividend hopes coupled with fierce Russian counter-offensive at Stalingrad, served as a trend prop.

Volume expanded briskly, aided by sizable blocks of low-priced issues. Gains of fractions to around a point subsequently were reduced here and there.

Among stocks making new year's tops were Erie, Goodyear, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber and Western Union. Modest plus signs were recorded for U. S. Steel, J. I. Case, Sears Roebuck, Johns-Manville, Anaconda, Du Pont and Douglas Aircraft.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Abscess of Middle Ear

THE EAR naturally divides itself into three main divisions—external, middle and internal. The external ear can be seen and known by us all. In the lower animals it is an organ of expression and also serves as a sounding board to catch sound.

In man it has degenerated into a useless and rather ugly appendix to the scalp. Part of the external ear we discussed yesterday—the skin-lined canal which conducts sound waves to the drum.

The middle ear is a not entirely closed cavity which also selects and transmits sound waves to the internal ear, the organ of hearing. At one end of the middle ear is the ear drum and connected to it are three small bones movable on each other, the innermost of which is attached to a window which opens into the inner organ of hearing.

Sound waves impinge on the ear drum and make it vibrate. These vibrations are transmitted by the little ear bones to the organ of hearing. But in order for this apparatus to work, in order for sound to be transmitted, the middle ear must be an elastic air space connected with the external world.

So into the center of the middle ear and going to the back of the throat is an open canal, the Eustachian tube. If at the moment of a loud sound the pressure in the middle ear is too great, the Eustachian tube opens up and allows the air under pressure into the back of the throat. It is an absolutely necessary provision of nature, but it is the cause of all the origin of middle ear trouble.

Because the throat is constantly full of germs, some of them from time to time naturally wander up the Eustachian tube and light and make lodgement in the middle ear.

So, fundamentally, the way to prevent abscess of the middle ear is to safeguard the Eustachian tube. That is why the care of colds and sore throat is so important.

True, under most circumstances middle ear infection passes off in the course of a few days or weeks and does little harm. But it is always troublesome and may have complications that are very serious.

There is one other connection to the middle ear besides the Eustachian tube, and that is the mastoid collection of cells. Nobody knows exactly what they are there for, yet they can cause very serious trouble if they become infected from abscess of the middle ear. They lie close to the brain and to the great veins of the neck, and mastoid infection is likely to spread.

The doctor called to see a sore throat, and especially a children's doctor, has to keep all this series of events in mind. Every case of measles and scarlet fever is potentially an ear case because both of these diseases start with an intense throat inflammation.

Taken in time, however, there is nothing that responds better to intelligent treatment than a middle ear infection. It does not impair hearing, curiously enough, and with modern ear surgery it has become one of the most satisfactory diseases to treat.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I ROSE quickly, lifted Lillian to her feet and pressed her head against my shoulder. I knew her fit of contrition must spend itself before I could count on the aid I needed from her.

"Cry it out, Darling," I urged her. "You have been under a terrific strain. Don't try to think until you've let yourself go a bit."

But after one long, shuddering sob, she drew herself erect and faced me steadily.

"I'll go back to your babies as soon as I may," she said. "At the farm there'll be no danger of my doing anything rash which could harm my own dear child. But first tell me more about Carolyn's reactions. The little beast! To think how nearly I played into her hands!"

Then, the next instant, her strong sense of justice found vent in contrite speech.

Lillian Penitent

"I'm sorry I called her that, Madge," she said. "We must give her the benefit of the doubt, but I agree that she must be given no opportunity to endanger Marion."

Her keen brain was functioning again, and I knew I should have no more trouble with her about Carolyn.

"Don't worry! She's under guard every second of the time," I said. "But I don't think she's innately evil, and I dohn believe she would do anything to harm Marion unless she was terrified to the point of desperation. In that she is different from Marion. Our girl would die, or suffer any torture, before she would betray a friend. Of course Carolyn may have hidden reserves of character of which we know nothing, but I always have thought her a much weaker character than Marion.

"I've known that for a long time," Lillian said. "But have you any reason to believe Marion is shielding Carolyn? It must be something bad, for Marion is pretty level-headed, and doesn't go off the deep end readily. And poor Helena! If only she never has to know!"

I angrily compared Helena Brixton's rage at Marion to Lillian's affectionate solicitude, but reminded myself of Helena's mental and spiritual limitations. Lillian's spirit is that of all great men and women, utterly selfless.

I did indeed have a conjecture about Carolyn's secret, but it was merely a fantastic guess with no shred of evidence to support it.

Gangster in Custody

"No, I haven't any idea," I said, "but I think it is some secret affecting only Carolyn and that collegiate gangster, not connected yet with the big thing the gangsters are after — information about Jack's cryptograms. But until this young gangster can get Carolyn into his power, I believe he will let his associates think he has simply 'fallen for the mail,' as they would put it. What plan he really has, nobody knows yet, but we can be sure he will carry it out. Carolyn and Marion are beyond his power to harm."

"How is that?" she queried. Then comprehension flashed into her eyes.

"Oh, he is the man Dicky put off the train without his shoes, and whose capture he arranged!" she exclaimed. "Oh, marvelous! If I know your father, he'll be kept incommunicado for a long while."
